

HUERTA TO BE DEPOSED NOW THE PEACE PLAN

PRESIDENT WILL NOT AGREE TO A FORMAL RECOGNITION.

WILSON TO RETIRE

IS NOT IN FAVOR AS AN AMBASSADOR.

CARRANZA HAS BEEN SOUNDED

And It Is Believed Provisional President To Be Agreed On Will Be Satisfactory.

Washington, July 28.—Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson, summoned from Mexico City to inform the Washington administration of conditions of the rebellion torn country, returned here today, submitting chiefly a recommendation that the United States use its influence to stabilize the Huerta regime.

No policy was evolved—at least none was announced—but it became known that the president's ideas and those of Ambassador Wilson as to the course to be pursued, are so radically different that administration officials interpreted the day's developments as forecasting the acceptance of Ambassador Wilson's resignation.

The president is concerned over the morality of any policy adopted by the United States and its effect on other Latin-American countries and is disinclined to strengthen a government that came into power through the questionable events incident to Madero's assassination.

Ambassador Wilson, on the other hand, is disposed to look at the situation, not from past events, but with the practical idea of the future. He believes it is the business of governments to look to the future and his suggestions have been in the direction of extending recognition to the Huerta government if it did this to conserve American interests.

O'Donoghue to Take Charge.
"The inadvisability of a diplomatic standpoint, of maintaining in Mexico City a representative who would not be in sympathy with the administration in Washington is said to have practically convinced the president that the embassy in Mexico City had better be conducted for the present by Nelson O'Donoghue, its first secretary, reputed here as efficient and experienced. The appointment of a new ambassador would be contingent upon the establishment of a satisfactory government at Mexico City. Meanwhile, the president advises Ambassador Wilson to take a few days' rest, as he has been laboring under a nervous strain."

While the chief officers of the American government were debating the facts of the situation today, it became known that the movement was on foot which might eventually spare them the necessity of offering mediation or any kind of interference in Mexican affairs, upon which the national pride of Mexico is sensitive.

The plan contemplates a repetition of the process by which Diaz abdicated in favor of a provisional president in the revolt against him. Prominent Mexican officials of influence interested in the idea have informed Secretary Bryan that if the American government would refrain from any policy of mediation at least for the present, they felt confident of bringing about an understanding between the warring forces looking toward a peaceful solution of political difficulties.

Suggests Huerta Resign.
President Huerta, it is suggested in the peace plan, might be persuaded by his friends that with the desperate financial condition of Mexico, his resignation would be an act of patriotism and self-denial. He would be asked to name a minister of foreign relations, a post now vacant, so that through the constitutional process of succession, the minister would succeed him as provisional president.

That Governor Carranza has informally been sounded on the proposition became known today, as well as the fact that certain men already have been mentioned for the provisional presidency who would be acceptable to both factions. The naming of a cabinet by the new provisional president and the convoking of a general election would follow, and it is hoped by those who are already working on the plan that the United States would recognize the new government so that Mexico's credit abroad would rise and make possible the negotiations of a

DROPPED FROM AEROPLANE
OVER GUAYMAS HARBOR

AVIATOR MAKES THREE TRIALS

Didier Masson Flies Over Harbor for Several Attempts Before
Locating Ship.

Nogales, Ariz., July 28.—The Mexican federal gunboat Tampoco was destroyed today by a bomb dropped from an aeroplane over Guaymas harbor, declares an official insurgent message. It was said that Aviator Didier Masson made three flights over the harbor before he succeeded in hitting the boat.

While it was reported during the Italian-Turkish war that a war vessel was sunk by a bomb dropped from an aeroplane the report was never confirmed. There is said to be no other report of a similar feat on record, although many bombs have been dropped in military camps during the Balkan war. Masson has made various attempts to damage the forts and ships of the Mexican army and navy at Guaymas but has met with indifferent success.

Governor Ignacio Pesquera received word of the reported insurgent victory while he was on the way north from Hermosillo. He was met at Nogales, Sonora, by Jone Maytorena, the Sonora governor, who has been at Tucson, Ariz., leaving the affairs of state with Pesquera. It was said that the two would confer regarding either elections or turning over the government to Maytorena.

Paris Legation Statement.
Paris, July 28.—The Mexican legation here today issued a statement saying the government's work of pacifying the disunion in the republic was making decided progress. The statement instances the reopening of a number of railways and reports defeats of Carranzista and Zapatista rebels under Manuel Castillo Brito. It adds that the Mexican army, which recently was made up of only 27,000 men, now is 84,000 strong.

Guaymas Investment Resumed.
At the Front, Above Guaymas, Mex., July 28.—The insurgent investment of Guaymas was resumed today and a second column was to be pushed forward tonight under cover of darkness, reinforcing the extreme front, which is composed of 2,000 men, half of them Yaquis. Federal gunboats in the harbor shelled insurgent positions all day.

Telegraph Down at El Paso.
El Paso, July 28.—On account of the destruction of telegraphic and railroad communication between Juarez and Chihuahua, American Consul Thomas D. Edwards tonight was arranging to send a special automobile courier to Chihuahua with dispatches for Marion Letcher, consul in Chihuahua City. No dispatch has been received here since July 25 of the two mine managers, Charles Russell and Bernard J. MacDonald, who have been prisoners of General Pascual Orozco's forces since early last week. No motive for their arrest has been ascertained.

Buffalo Bill Show Is in Bankruptcy

Trenton, N. J., July 28.—An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed here today in the United States court against the Buffalo Bill Wild West and Pawnee Bill's Great Far East shows.

Notice was made on Gordon W. Lill, president of the company controlling the shows. The company is a New Jersey corporation. Ancillary proceedings will be instituted in Denver. The assets and liabilities were not stated in the petition.

Two Killed in Wreck.
White Fish, Mont., July 28.—Great Northern fast mail No. 2 westbound, was wrecked east of Rockhill today. Engineer Peck L. Forum and Fireman Carl Smith, both of White Fish, were killed and Express Messenger Lamb was injured but will recover. The engine left the rails and turned over, one of the mail cars piling on top of it.

Los Angeles Society Girl Will Have Trouble Marrying Prince Stanislaus Sulkowski

Miss Marie Louise Freese

Prince Stanislaus Sulkowski and Miss Marie Louise Freese of Los Angeles, whose engagement was announced some days ago, will not be wedded without difficulty, if at all. The result depends largely on the nerve of the prince. Will he run counter to the wishes of the family and the nobility of Austria?

Miss Freese is the daughter of a wealthy Los Angeles family, long in society of Southern California. The prince comes from one of the oldest Polish-Austrian families, which are bitterly opposed to an attempt to raise a young woman without a title to the position of princess.

The first bale of the season's cotton reached Waco yesterday afternoon. C. C. Stewart of Bosqueville delivered the bale to Sem Nix, public weigher, at exactly 4:05 o'clock in the afternoon. The gin weight is 455 pounds. The cotton was raised on the Stewart farm near Bosqueville by the Stewart Bros. It was classed as strict middling, an unusually good grade for early cotton.

The bale was ginned at the C. H. Mitchner gin at Bosqueville, yesterday morning, and immediately rushed to Waco. The bale will be sold this morning at 11 o'clock at public auction in front of the cotton exchange, a custom that holds with the first bale each year.

The first bale of 1913 is classed as better cotton than that of the previous year, is also heavier by 75 pounds, and is several days ahead of the previous crop's first output. Cotton last year, however, was late, and the crop this year is not as early as in some years past.

MINERS STILL OUT NONE OF COPPER MINE STRIKERS HAVE RETURNED TO WORK.

Non-Union Men Threatened—Members of Militia Company are Given Warning.

Calumet, Mich., July 28.—It was learned none of the striking copper miners went back to work today. No organized disorder took place today, but non-union men complained that threats had been made against them and at least two members of the local militia company were warned that reprisals would follow a continuing of their military activities. One received an anonymous letter and the widowed mother of the other was called upon by several men who told her she might expect trouble for her son unless he deserted his company.

Moose in Convention.
Cincinnati, July 28.—At a monster meeting at Music Hall tonight a ladies auxiliary to the Loyal Order of Moose, which began its convention here, was established with the approval of the supreme lodge.

At a meeting of the supreme lodge tonight the following nominations were made: Walter E. Dorn, San Francisco, supreme dictator; Mahlon Garland, Pittsburg, supreme vice dictator; E. J. Henning, San Diego, Cal., supreme prelate; James J. Gough, Baltimore, supreme sergeant at arms; Rodney H. Braudon, Anderson, Ind., supreme secretary; Daniel F. Crawford, Pittsburg, and Harry Mac, Philadelphia, supreme treasurers; Frederick D. Robinson, Hamilton, Ont., and Herbert Parker, Boston, supreme inner guards. The election will take place tomorrow.

White Slavers Arrested.
Harrisburg, Pa., July 28.—Samuel Franklin, alias Samuel Ware, and Edward Loud, alleged leaders of white slave agents, who in company with declared to have trailed the Tenth United States negro cavalry on its march from Vermont to Virginia, were arrested by federal agents here today.

The authorities say the men are responsible for the most atrocious white slave plot the government has had to deal with in many years.

Mormons Dedicate Temple in Alberta
Cardston, Alberta, July 28.—The site of the seventh temple to be erected by the Mormon church and the first to be built outside the United States was dedicated here yesterday. President Joseph E. Smith and other church officials participated.

BRUTAL MURDER OF DALLAS GIRL

BEATEN ABOUT THE HEAD AND THROAT CUT FROM EAR TO EAR.

BUSINESS DISTRICT MYSTERY

Young Woman of High Character Is Victim of a Tragedy in Private Office.

Dallas, July 28.—With her throat cut from ear to ear, a horrible gash severing the jugular vein, the body of Miss Florence Brown, stenographer of the Robinson & Styron Realty company, was found dead in the rear office of that concern at 116 Fifth street before 9 o'clock Monday morning.

The body was found lying just inside the doorway of the washroom which leads from Mr. Robinson's private office. On the inside of the right wrist was found the imprint of a man's teeth. So deeply had she been bitten that the blood had spouted out and it was later possible for the undertaker to secure a wax impression of the wound, which he turned over to the police for possible use in identification.

A gold ring belonging to Florence Brown was found on the floor near the body. It was crushed and broken, someone having stepped upon it during the struggle.

Removed Signs of Guilt.
Evidence showed conclusively that after the killing the slayer had calmly stayed in the washroom and removed all signs of guilt from his person. A bowl full of bloody water and a towel bedagged with blood stains was left by him.

Messengers dashed off to summon doctors and to bring Detective Randolph Brown, her father, to the scene. Police headquarters were not notified until the undertaking wagon removed the body. Chief of Police John Ryan and Chief of Detectives Henry Tanner, together with Assistant Chief Brown, did not leave the body on the scene of the crime and were handicapped in their initial investigations.

Medical Investigation.
At the request of County Attorney Currie McCutcheon, Dr. J. T. Watson has been retained by the state as special medical investigator into the killing.

Dr. Watson made a careful examination of the body at the morgue shortly before noon. "In my opinion, the killing was a deliberate and cold blooded murder," Dr. Watson declared after his investigation. "Besides the injuries to the girl's head, evidently performed with some blunt instrument I found distinct finger nail prints about her face, neck and upper part of her chest. She must have struggled desperately for her life."

"The knife gash cut almost two-thirds of the way through her neck and must have been inflicted by a powerful man. Florence Brown, in her struggles grasped the knife which her assailant wielded. On her right hand two of her fingers were cut clear to the bone."

Dr. Watson caused photographs to be taken of the exact injuries. Several deep pictures were obtained of her struggles against the knife. The physician found no evidence of any criminal assault.

Girl's Father Collapses.
Patrolman J. Randolph Brown, the father of the dead girl, was entirely overcome by the scene. "The horrible sight caused him to collapse immediately. He sank sobbing into one of the office chairs."

The news of the murder spread like wildfire throughout the business district and caused a panic. Men crowded into Fifth street with muttered threats of later vengeance upon the girl's slayer, should he be caught.

Grand Jury Detectives Davis and Street with Sheriff Brackenbush soon joined the city officers and a coroner's inquest was held. As the result one man was held and sent to the police station where he was detained until he could be questioned in detail regarding what he knew of the affair. The consensus of opinion among the officers was to the effect that the man was innocent but that they wished to have him on hand as a witness. No weapon was found on the man and his white clothes bore no marks of blood or indications that he had been involved in a struggle.

Many rumors were received by the police to the effect that a white man clad in his shirt sleeves was seen running from the real estate offices at the time of the killing. The officers believe that the runner was one of the employees who hurriedly dashed out to summon a physician.

Description of Wound.
Three distinct wounds were found upon her head. Over her right eye was a deep gash, which might have been caused by a blow from a six-shooter, a hammer or some blunt instrument. The laceration was deep and bled freely. Over the right temple was a big purple bruise which hardly broke the skin. Beneath the right ear were several scratches which may have been caused by finger nails.

On her right wrist, on the inside, some two inches above the base of the thumb, was a clear imprint of teeth marks. The bite had drawn blood.

No evidence was found of criminal assault. Four cut marks were found on her right hand as if she were struggling to get possession of a sharp weapon.

Wound That Caused Death.
The wound which had caused instant death, however, was a terrible gash extending from beneath the right ear to the left side of the face. It severed all veins and arteries in the neck and throat, and almost decapitated the girl. It was evidently inflicted with a razor or else with an extremely sharp knife.

Theory as to Killing.
Grouped about the case upon which the body rested, police and doctors discussed in detail the manner in which the injuries might possibly have been

CURRENCY BILL GOES TO CAUCUS

ALLOW TWO WEEKS MORE FOR DISCUSSION—DETAILS NOT PUBLIC.

WILSON REMAINS CONFIDENT

Believes Bill Will Pass Both House and Senate—Henry's Fight
To Be Decided.

Washington, July 28.—Democrats of the house banking and currency committee today agreed to allow themselves two more weeks for wrangling over the administration currency bill. Two weeks from today a democratic house caucus will receive the measure in as finished condition as the committee members can arrive at.

After three hours of argument, at which various plans for disposing of the measure were discussed, the democratic committee members voted to authorize the chairman to ask for a caucus of the party to be called on August 11, to act upon such report on the pending currency bill as will then be made. Further than this, the members directed the chairman to make public no details of what took place at the meeting.

The supporters of the administration bill having failed, in weeks of discussion and argument, to win over three or four opponents of the measure among the democrats of the committee, have decided to proceed without them and allow those dissatisfied with the measure to carry their fight to the house caucus.

This will throw into the caucus the entire fight over the so-called insurgent amendments providing for "cotton, corn and wheat currency," as framed by Representative Henry of Texas and Representative Ragsdale of South Carolina. These amendments, with the other insurgent proposals, will undoubtedly be voted down by the conference of the committee members by a vote of about 11 to 3. This vote would not be sufficient to overcome the vote of the insurgent democrats and the minority members in the conference. Therefore, the measure will be taken directly to the caucus.

Proceedings Not Public.
Today's entire session of the conference was spent in a discussion of whether the proceedings of the meetings should be made public. After considerable argument the conference rejected a proposition to throw open the doors of the committee room and allow the debate to be made public. The vote was six to six and Chairman Glass cast the deciding vote about the open door policy. It was then voted to enjoin secrecy as to the proceedings on every member of the conference.

President Wilson and Chairman Glass of the house committee and Chairman Brown of the senate committee believe that they will be able to get the measure through both, and with the essentials practically unchanged even though opposition will be met at every step and delay encountered.

Representative Wingo of Arkansas, who previously had been classed among the insurgent democrats, was a white house caller today. He predicted that the administration bill, without any important changes, would be reported this week. He counted on a vote of at least 10 to 4 for the administration measure.

Chairman Glass announced at the white house today that the program in his committee would be to vote on the currency bill, to vote on the administration bill, to vote on the open door policy. He counted on a vote of at least 10 to 4 for the administration measure.

DECLARES VALUE OF U. S. TWOS

M'ADOO MEETS THREATENED
PANIC WITH DEPARTMENT
AUTHORITY.

PROTECTS HOLDERS

BY ACCEPTING THE BOOK WORTH OF BONDS.

APPEALS TO COUNTRY BANKS

Not To Be Led by the Money Market to Fear for Currency Issues.

Washington, July 28.—Secretary McAdoo today flatly charged that the decline of government 2 per cent bonds to 95½—a new record—was due "almost wholly to what appears to be a campaign waged with every indication of concerted action upon the part of a number of influential New York city banks to cause apprehension and uneasiness about these bonds, in order to help them in their efforts to defeat the currency bill."

Banks throughout the country own almost entirely $730,822,130 of the 2 per cent bonds. Their market value today was approximately $30,000,000 less than when the banks bought them. At the present price, however, the discrepancy between the market value and the issues of notes against the bonds is covered by what is known as the 5 per cent redemption fund deposited by the banks with the treasury to care for retirements of national bank notes.

Secretary McAdoo announced it was not his intention to require the banks to charge off the present depreciation below par, but that the banks might continue to put the bonds at par in their statements to the comptroller of the currency, at least "until some material change in conditions should compel the adoption of another course."

Two per Cent Worth Par.
In his statement, Secretary McAdoo declared 2 per cent were worth par notwithstanding their decline in the New York market, and continued:

"The idea seems to be that the country banks, which hold about two-thirds of the 2 per cent bonds, and use them as the basis for their circulating notes, may be induced to unite with the New York city banks in opposition to the bill if they can be made to believe that the government is going to incur these bonds and cause losses to the banks. This, of course, is unfounded."

Folly to Sell at Sacrifice.
"Meantime it is folly for any bank to sell government bonds at a sacrifice because any apprehended legislation adverse to government bonds, as no legislation will result. In the 124 years of its existence, the government has kept faith scrupulously with creditors, and it is not going to change its honorable character now. If the necessities of any bank oblige it to sell bonds at depressed prices, that, of course, is another matter—a matter solely for the bank to determine."

The secretary said that not only nothing had occurred to impair the value of the 2 per cent bonds, but that the amendment already adopted by the banking and currency committee of the house enhances their intrinsic worth:

"Because the banks and all other holders of 2 per cent bonds are given a privilege, not now possessed of exchanging the 2s for 2s without the circulation rights, at the rate of 5 per cent per annum of their holdings, payable in three minutes to meet and adjourn. Saturday the session lasted four minutes."

Immediately after the opening prayer had been concluded today Representative Gardner in charge of the filibuster in the absence of Republican Leader Mark Hanna made the point that no quorum was present and Representative Clayton moved to adjourn. It is probable that before long the Democrats will end the filibuster by allowing time for debate on the Caminetti case.

Senate Confirms Appointments.
Washington, July 28.—The senate today confirmed the appointments of Frederic C. Penfield as ambassador to Austria-Hungary; James W. Gerard, ambassador to Germany; Joseph E. Willard, minister to Spain; Charles S. Hamman, minister to Ecuador; John W. Davis, solicitor general and Charles S. Hamlin, assistant secretary of the treasury.

Three Children Drown.
Monroe, La., July 28.—Arla Yearwood, aged 12; Mary Downing and Rosa Lee Murphy, each 14 years old, were drowned while wading in the Ouachita river at Longtown, 14 miles from here, today.

A. & M. College to Claim Share of University Land

College Station, July 28.—At a meeting of alumni and friends of the A. & M. college at the college this morning steps looking toward the inauguration of a consistent campaign to secure complete separation of the A. & M. college from the University of Texas were taken. The meeting was an echo of the fight waged to defeat Senate Joint Resolution No. 18 and the men who most bitterly opposed that resolution were leaders in today's meeting. Resolutions asking for complete separation with an equitable division of the university's endowment funds and adequate support for educational and other state institutions were adopted.

The resolutions protested against the mortgaging of the university lands or any arrangement whereby the lands might be encumbered, hypothecated or bonded. The sale of the university lands to actual settlers and the use of any part of the proceeds deemed advisable by the legislature for the erection of buildings at the university and the A. & M. college in Brazos county in the proportion as their respective interests may be determined was also urged.

To further the proposals of these resolutions a committee was appointed as follows: W. A. Bowen, Arlington, chairman; E. B. Cushing, Houston; C. B. Metcalfe, San Angelo; P. L. Downs, Temple; Joe Utay, Dallas, and Walter Whipprecht, Bryan.

Man, Wife and Two Children Are Found Shot to Death

Rumsey, Alberta, July 28.—George Robinson, his wife and two children were found shot to death in their farm house near here today. The bodies of Robinson and his youngest child, a 3-year-old girl, were in one room; his wife and son were in another.

There was a shotgun across Robinson's body and three empty shells lay on the floor nearby. The house showed evidences of a fierce struggle. The police have not determined whether the family was attacked or whether it was a case of murder or suicide.

ROWZEE SAYS HE SAID IT TO HIM

TELLS ABOUT COLQUITT'S REMARK ABOUT HOTEL POLITICIANS.

HE REPEATED IT TO WOLTERS

Is Manager of a Newspaper Owned by Wolters, and It Was His Duty to Inform Him.

Austin, July 28.—M. H. Rowzee, who related to Colonel J. F. Wolters the statements Governor Colquitt had made which precipitated the friction between Governor Colquitt and Colonel Wolters, made the following statement today in answer to Governor Colquitt's statement of Saturday night:

"It is with a degree of regret that I am forced to make a statement with regard to the Wolters-Colquitt controversy. However since Colonel Wolters says that I made a statement to him and the governor says that he did not make that statement to me, it is necessary that I speak plainly. I did tell Colonel Wolters what he says I told him and at the same time insist that the governor told me exactly what I told Colonel Wolters, although Governor Colquitt denies it. I think that surely the governor must have forgotten the tenor of his conversation with me in the matter.

"According to Governor Colquitt's first statement, published in Saturday's papers we were discussing politics Saturday, July 19. That is not the date. It was on Sunday, July 13, in the club rooms of the Austin club.

"I remarked to the governor that the Statesman had received a cut of W. A. Hanger, and I presumed that his announcement for governor would follow later.

Does Not Think Hanger Can Get It.

"In reply to this, the governor said that he did not think Hanger could be elected.

"We discussed other candidates and drifted back to the previous campaign. The race for lieutenant governor a year ago was brought up and I remarked to the governor that early in the last campaign coming up from Houston, in conversation with some one on the train, I was told that a conference in Houston a day or two before between Colonel R. M. Johnston and Clarence Guseley, Colonel Wolters and others had resulted in an agreement to support W. M. Imboden for lieutenant governor.

"Here the governor remarked that these hotel politicians would never be able to elect Hanger governor. First he said that Hanger was not able physically to make an aggressive campaign, for it would require three to seven speeches a day for ninety days and second no man could be elected governor of Texas by conducting a hotel campaign. The outcome of this, he said, would be that Hanger's entering the race would keep the anti from agreeing on some man who really could be elected governor, as Jake Wolters had done in the senatorial right, resulting in the election of a prohibitionist.

Antis Lay Down on Him.

"Those who are intimate with Governor Colquitt know that the expression 'hotel politicians' is a common one with him, that he insists that he cannot get support from the politicians, that of late he has been saying that he could get more support from the pros than from the anti in the legislature, that with one or two exceptions the anti senators had been laying down on him, etc.

"I would not make this statement were it not for the fact that my veracity has been questioned. I dislike very much to be engaged in a controversy with the governor and to dispute his statement, but I feel called upon to do so. I have given in substance what passed between us and presume that the governor's memory of our conversation is merely bad because of the numerous worries he has had of late.

Manages Wolters' Paper.

"This much I would add: I am the president and general manager of the Statesman, a paper controlled by Colonel Wolters. I told him what I did about my conversation with the governor because I felt that he, as owner of a paper that had supported Governor Colquitt loyally, should know it. It was merely a business matter, as I felt it my duty to confer with him to that extent on the matter of policy."

J. E. DUNCAN OF WACO DEAD

Is Found in His Room at San Antonio—Burial at Belton.

San Antonio, July 28.—J. E. Duncan, 58 years old, a retired merchant of Waco, was found dead in his room at 521 Castle avenue at 8 o'clock yesterday morning by his nephew, A. Shotgun with one empty shell was found by his side. The whole top of his head was blown off by the discharge of the gun.

Coroner R. Neil Campbell held an inquest and rendered a verdict of suicide. The body will be taken to Belton for burial.

Decedent had been in ill-health for the last three or four years, his sister also died several days ago, and it is believed that becoming despondent over these matters he ended his life. Survivors are his widow and two children, a sister, Mrs. Louis Eilers of San Antonio, and a brother.

MURDER OF DALLAS GIRL

inflicted. It was the general opinion of all present that Miss Florence Brown had been beaten unconscious and afterward butchered by having her throat cut.

Wholesale Arrests Made.

Every police office in Dallas and all county offices were notified to carefully watch for suspicious persons. As a result, Monday afternoon wholesale arrests were made. Most of the prisoners were found to have marks on their clothing or have torn clothes. All will be questioned closely by detectives.

Florence Brown, who was 27 years old, was well known in Dallas, where she had lived for many years. Her character was exemplary in every way. She was a constant and regular church member, having attended services on Sunday night in company with near neighbors. In religious circles she was especially well thought of.

At the Girl's Home.

At the home of Miss Florence Brown, 2912 Cedar Springs road, many friends and neighbors came to console the father, mother and sister, Mrs. J. W. May, who were suffering greatly from the shock of the sudden death. Mr. Brown, the father, shortly after leaving the scene of the occurrence rushed to his home where he told his wife of the sad fate of their daughter. Physicians were called in case of need and no one was allowed to see Mrs. Brown. Her hysterical sobs could be heard from the room where she was being consoled by friends.

Alone Only Few Minutes.

Miss Brown lived with her parents on the Cedar Springs road. A friend brought her to work this morning in his automobile. She reached the office about 8 o'clock. The rental manager of the firm was in the office when she arrived. In a few minutes he went to the courthouse on some business matters and left Miss Brown alone in the office. About 9 o'clock E. P. Cuthbertson, an employee of the firm, arrived and, opening the door of Robinson's private office, found the girl's lifeless body stretched out in the doorway. He immediately notified other members of the firm and called for physicians.

Sheriff Follows Clue.

Sheriff Brandenburg returned to Dallas at 2 p. m. today after an unsuccessful automobile drive to Alpha for the purpose of arresting a suspect in the murder case of Miss Florence T. Brown. When he reached Alpha, however, he notified all farmers within a radius of seventy-five miles by telephone of the murder and urged them to be on the lookout for a man who had bloodstains on his coat sleeve and trousers leg. Mr. Brandenburg made a systematic search of the entire route but was unable to get the slightest clue of the whereabouts of the suspect.

The departure of Sheriff Brandenburg for Alpha was on receipt of information from Jack White of McKinney. Mr. White was driving his automobile to Dallas Monday morning. His car was muddy and he stopped it about nine miles north of Dallas to clean it. While engaged in this a man walked by his car from the direction of Dallas. Mr. White gave him a casual survey and noticed bloodstains on his coat sleeve and trousers. He thought nothing of this until he reached Dallas and learned of the murder. He immediately notified the sheriff's department.

As this man was seen by Mr. White at 10:30 o'clock Mr. Brandenburg believes it doubtful that this is the man wanted, owing to the fact that nine miles intervened between that locality and the business section of Dallas. In order to make no mistakes, however, Mr. Brandenburg notified all his deputies and the farmers within a radius of seventy-five miles. All that section of the country is now on the lookout for the suspect.

DIRECT ELECTION OF U.S. SENATORS

BILL AS ENGROSSED PROVIDES A MAJORITY VOTE IS NECESSARY.

PRISON WRANGLE CONTINUES

All Commissioners on the Ground and None Will Resign—Penalty Money Disposed Of.

Austin, July 28.—Little excitement prevailed in the legislative chambers today. Despite the belief that the week would open with a stormy session, the senate devoted its morning hours to memorial exercises and convened in the afternoon to consider the confirmation of W. W. Collier of San Antonio as commissioner of insurance and banking to succeed B. L. Gill. After an executive session the appointment was confirmed and Mr. Collier took the oath of office later in the afternoon.

The Taylor direct election bill for United States senators created a slight stir in the senate chamber. After considerable wrangling, the bill finally was engrossed. It provides for the election of United States senators by a majority vote, a second primary being necessary after the first, where no candidate receives a majority in the first. Campaign expenses are limited to $5000 and any candidate nominated by petition must declare his determination to serve if elected before his name is placed upon a ballot. The minority report of the committee on this bill was adopted when Lieutenant Governor Mayes cast the deciding vote after a tie vote had been declared.

The majority report denied the governor all appointive power, while the minority as amended allowed the governor to fill any vacancy in the senate occurring during a session of the national senate, and compelling him to call an election within forty days after the vacancy occurs.

Prison Commission Wrangle.

The prison commission wrangle continues to demand attention. All the members of the commission were on the ground today and ready to fight until the end. There will be no resignation. Both sides are playing a waiting game, and there is no tendency on either side to rush matters.

It is the intention of Senator Townsend and others of the pro contingent to introduce a bill providing for the election by a majority vote of all state officers from the governor down. If the attorney general rules that other election laws can be considered in the special session under the recommendation of the governor for legislation on the direct election of senators.

In the house as usual, the disposition of the Standard Oil penalty money was scheduled. After a morning of debate an agreement was made for the disposition of the money, $205,000 to take up A. & M. bonds and the remainder to pay up pensions of Confederate veterans until the 5-cent tax now being levied for that purpose brings in sufficient revenues.

The senate refused to concur, however, and left the entire matter pending for tomorrow.

IN THE SENATE

Austin, July 28.—The entire morning session of the senate was devoted to memorial services in honor of the memory of the late Senators W. J. Greer of Van Zandt county and J. E. Kauffman of Galveston. Senators Warren, Darwin, Hudspeth, Gibson, Austin and Westbrook spoke during the exercises.

After the senate had completed its memorial exercises, it was agreed to go into executive session at 3:30 to consider the appointment of W. W. Collier as commissioner of insurance and banking. Time for executive session to consider the rest of the appointments has not been set. The governor will be required, under the opinion of Attorney General Looney, to send in also the names of R. W. Brahan and L. W. Tuttle as prison commissioners. The fight on them, together with the

John B. Hood Camp Is Not Satisfied With His Explanation.

Austin, July 28.—Not satisfied with the acknowledgment of Attorney General Looney to certain remarks made in the Daughters of the Confederacy case in the local civil appeals court, the John B. Hood camp, Confederate veterans, has appointed a committee to ascertain in just what tone of voice and with what facial expression the remarks were made. They hope to ascertain whether the remarks the Hood camp believes slanderous and ungentlemanly were made to carry a point at law or were the vent to Mr. Looney's feeling in the matter.

TEXAS FARMERS CONGRESS

Eight Hundred Persons Are Attending Big Meeting at College Station.

College Station, Texas, July 28.—The sixteenth annual convention of the Texas Farmers' Congress opened this morning at the A. & M. College with an attendance of 800 persons a large part of that number being women, boys and girls. The trains this afternoon brought in 400 more delegates and by tomorrow the attendance is expected to reach the 1500 mark.

In his annual address the president E. W. Knox of San Antonio, made a plea for the separation of the A. & M. College and the state university and an equitable division of the university lands. His remarks were vigorously applauded.

E. R. Cushing of Houston, president of the board of directors of the college delivered the address of welcome. He said that of the $655,000 asked of the state for building this year that $355,000 was asked for building and accessories for the school of agriculture, while the remainder was sought for the engineering branches.

"We are not going to let the engineering department run down, but we are going to build up the agricultural school. Next year courses on poultry husbandry, forestry, agricultural engineering and farm marketing will be offered."

Fritz Englehardt of Eagle Lake responded to the address of welcome and Judge Ed R. Kone of Austin, state agricultural commissioner, spoke on "Co-operation." At the conclusion of his morning session President Knox appointed committees on education, finance and resolutions. In the afternoon the allied organizations were in session and tonight a regular program of addresses was carried out. There are twenty-five allied organizations in session here now.

HORSE THIEVES KILL FARMER

Shot and Instantly Killed.

Cottulla, Texas, July 28.—W. S. Candie, a farmer about 50 years old, residing ten miles southeast of Cottulla, was killed Saturday night by horse thieves. Candie's son, coming from a neighbor's about 9 o'clock, discovered parties after their mules, which were in a trap not far from the house. The young man reported the matter to his father and they started to investigate. Not far from the house, they were fired upon, two loads of buckshot striking Candie, killing him almost instantly. Two mules and a horse had ropes about their necks but became frightened by the guns and were abandoned by the thieves. No clue has been obtained as to who the thieves were.

Alice Eis Made Blase
Broadway Blink Often

Here is Alice Eis, whose sensational dance, "Le Rouge et Noir," made Broadway sit up and take notice, and which finally resulted in the arrest of herself and partner, and of Arthur Hammerstein, at whose theatre she was appearing. No conviction followed the arrest, however, and Miss Eis was allowed to continue her dance unmolested.

Miss Eis is the possessor of a beautiful back that is said to have caused Kitty Gordon many a pang of jealousy. Her dance, "Le Rouge et Noir," was originated by her partner, Mr. French, several years ago at Monte Carlo, just after he had lost heavily at the gambling table. It was produced all over Europe before it was shown here, and has created a furore at every appearance.

MISS MARY SHELTON

HAS MORNING BRIDGE.

Another courtesy to Miss Anne Risher and her house party, the Misses Simpson of Fort Worth and Culberson of Houston, comes this morning. Miss Mary Shelton is hostess at bridge.

MISS SUSIE EDMOND

HAS GAME OF BRIDGE.

In quite an informal, yet none the less pleasant manner, Miss Susie Edmond took occasion to compliment Miss Anne Risher and her house party, the Misses Simpson of Fort Worth, and Miss Culberson of Houston. Three tables were made ready for the Monday morning game on the porch. Two tables were provided for the hostess, which fell to Miss Mazie Turner and a summer ivory mounted fan which the consolation cut gave to Miss Mary Carter. A luncheon plate was the last detail in the pleasure offered by Miss Edmond to her guests. Those who played are: Misses Risher, Nannette Simpson, Lucy Simpson, Aubrey Culberson, Fernine Hallert, Mazie Turner, Grace Cox, Frances Van Boddie, Mary Carter, Vashette Hubby, Mary Shelton, Flora Edmond.

MRS. ELIZABETH M'DANIEL

PASSES AWAY IN HUBBARD.

Mrs. Walter Baker leaves this morning for Hubbard in response to a telegram telling that her aunt, Mrs. Betty M'Daniel, had passed away. This was not unexpected as Mrs. M'Daniel had been a hopeless invalid for several months. Her only sister, Mrs. Eliza Cornish, had been with her during the severe trial, when the devoted son was buried only a few weeks ago.

MRS. E. D. RUSSELL

COMPANIES MRS. BAKER.

Mrs. E. D. Russell accompanies Mrs. Baker. Mrs. M'Daniel is not unknown to many in this city. These will mark with regret that she is no more. Especially will sympathy go to Mrs. Cornish, who is now the last surviving daughter of the honorable and honored pioneer family, one of the first in this community.

MRS. WILLIAM BRAZELTON

IS ENJOYING ASHEVILLE.

Returning for a second season in Asheville, Mrs. William Brazelton is meeting former acquaintances and making new. She writes of much gaiety both for herself and for Betty Brazelton, as well as the ante debut pleasure of Miss Alice Brazelton. They are at the Manor, Albemarle Park. One of the elaborate social affairs with private hostess has been a luncheon with fifty guests. Mrs. Brazelton being among this number. She remarks upon the quaintness of the color tone, a gray and pink. The pink was developed from the gorgeous asters now in their best bloom. The effect, while out of the ordinary was quite pleasing. Even the room setting, architecturally was something not often seen. This was Grove Park Inn. The usual luncheon courses were on gray menu folders. A number of special menu touches were noted. Among these was the serving of "Bancombe" chicken. It is interesting to go with our friends into their summer homes as varied and widely divergent as they are for the present season.

JUDGE JOHN C. WEST

REPORTS FROM CHAUTAUQUA.

In leaving, Judge West was of the opinion that he would enjoy the trip, though thoughts upon Gottsberg ground, and then he him homeward. But, he has found such delightful experiences that he tarries, and his friends have cards instead of company. In New York City, he visited the Texas club and all points of interest in the handsome touring car of Mrs. Belvidere Brooks, who was laid to rest only yesterday. When his card was mailed, Judge West had not received the news which must have since depressed him greatly. He went to the great reunion of the Blue and the Gray and then with Miss West, took passage for Lakewood, Chautauqua. Here, he is simply charmed with life, people, and climate. There is not a mention of a homecoming. Judge West reports 7,000 on the Chautauqua grounds, and something of personal interest to every single one of the attractions offered daily. Miss West is taking some lecture courses. Texans are in the majority when it comes to a roll call of the states. In this Chautauqua every season finds one week devoted to Shakspeare. There is a noted Shakspeare lecturer engaged. A Shakspeare play is presented, Shakspeare contests are held, and so on. Judge West selected for the picture on his card the view in which the Chautauquan last season were on the beautiful grounds waiting for the grand outdoor Shakspeare pageant.

WE NEED JUNIOR CLUBS

WHY NOT FORM SOME?

It is such a frequent remark, "I am not one of the big bugs, so I can not do anything." The poor mistaken woman should come to the realization of her right place in the world. My dear woman, what is the difference between you and the so-called "big bug"? Nothing in the world, except she is progressive and energetic and you are not. It is frequently heard that this and that should have attention. Why not you instead of the other? You can start the crusade for correction? Many good things go unheeded because there are not sufficient women to be propellers in the work.

Every phase of the public enterprise should have its junior branch. Just suppose every child in the city was directed toward the city beautiful. Not only the present, but the future would be benefited thereby. Suppose every child in this city were taught to live and to protect the animal. The next generation would not need a humane society. The plan right here is for the woman who reads this, start at once a Junior branch of that work which appeals to her. Begin with the playmates of her own child. Many are the great enterprises which have grown from small beginnings. If one feels inclined to the civic work, why not begin with one's own block? Have the children note the stray bits of paper and pick up and keep these removed. Work with the falling leaves, the straggling vines, the overgrown curb. Do this, and see how quickly the idea will expand. Or, if it be the humane, organize a junior civic humane circle on the immediate block.

Get the children one afternoon in each week. Read animal stories aloud. Encourage the children to tell what they have seen and kind since the last meeting. Encourage them to bring others into the circle. If needs be, have an ice cream cone to attract, at first. Yes, every woman in this city can do a part in the work for her city. She must not sit and wait for those whom she considers have leisure and money to aid in city character building. Begin humbly at the own doorstep, and you will find that you are a factor, too, in this service to others.

WOMEN ARE ENLISTED

FOR COTTON PALACE WORK.

No sooner did she consent to serve as chairman of the women's department of the Cotton Palace, than Mrs. J. W. Bass began to bestir herself towards the organization of her forces. The women have responded very, very cordially, and the next day or two will find Mrs. Bass ready to announce her chief helpers. This means she will have her chairman for each department. She leaves the for the North. In the meantime, each chairman will engage her helpers.

Already it is known that there will be several new departments in the women's exhibit, each one of which is a decided addition of interest. The former departments will be revised, and the atmosphere of novelty imparted. Mrs. Bass expects to make the entertainment feature strong in the hopes that each day will bring a brilliant climax in the auditorium. With an affair which includes so many and such varied interest it is impossible to make matters move rapidly. Yet, it is astonishing how much Mrs. Bass has accomplished in these past few days. The women who are consenting to aid her are efficient workers. Each realizing to what she is committing herself. It all promises fourth Cotton Palace season.

One feature which Mrs. Bass hopes to begin at once, is the publicity feature. This means only that every woman in this city feels the personal responsibility in mentioning the Cotton Palace to every Texas friend to whom she writes between this and Cotton Palace dates. Not a woman in all Waco but who has some friend whom to one also knows. Think of the aggregation reached. If all will enter into this publicity spirit, it is every woman's Cotton Palace. Even the individual who never sees the outside world can do this to aid the work.

Another assistance is ideas. If any woman has visited an exposition, let her pass it on. However, let her only be on the alert now, but not tell her ideas yet awhile. When the committees are published each woman should clip list and preserve. Then, when these ideas develop, or information is desired, the chairman can be approached, and Mrs. Bass saved a world of unnecessary worry.

It is now altogether for the fourth annual Cotton Palace, in which the women must do a part which they have never reached before, in interest and brilliancy.

Society Personals.

The term of court at Marlin having closed, Judge and Mrs. Richard Myron are in their home on President Heights to remain some time.

Miss Mary Anderson, who is returning from music study in Germany, to take a place in the faculty at Baylor University, is now ocean bound for Texas.

Cards received from Mesdames James Baker and Warren Moore report a most glorious trip through the Yellowstone on their way to California.

Mrs. B. H. Wood, Miss Ruth Lennox, Doro Wood and Wilson Wood are among the first of the returning party to note. They arrived from California on Monday.

The recent death of Mrs. M. A. Kasee Reeves, who is at Boulder, is that she has succumbed to another rather severe spell of illness.

Wonder how many of us could stand the shock of a formal invitation to a formal party? It really would be too much for these relaxed summer nerves.

And still the telephone messages congratulate the Morning News society editor for her trenchant remarks upon the laxity of the Waco mother with her child. It is hoped, since so many have noted that some of the mothers will heed.

The duties of Miss Mattie Wright in San Francisco have grown to the extent that a second deaconess has gone to her assistance. Miss Wright has been spending her vacation with her mother, Mrs. Samuel P. Wright at Pomona, Cal.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Risher are discussing a winter season abroad from the city. Their place of sojourn is not yet decided.

Of course you never stopped to think about it, but your horse gets just as hot as you; only a little more so when you sit behind and he does all the work. Have a thought for his comfort.

They say the styles always reflect current affairs. That is why we are wearing the Bulgarian bands about our clothes. If this continue and we have a little tiff with Mexico, will the women take to sombreros and blankets? Of course they will, and all the glaring colors along with the rest of the Montezuma fashions.

Miss Anne Risher and her household are having a game of bowls out at the Huaco club for their diversion last night.

Out in Los Angeles the city gave their mayor a banquet. The women were included among the guests. Here in Waco, we may have fifty banquets and never a time will the women be remembered as factors in the city's prosperity. Even more than guests, the long list of women patronesses for the Los Angeles affair were published.

It is reported that girls are now taking their kimonos out to Cameron park and enjoying cool in real earnest. This has actually been seen. The hand stand is their fad.

Extreme decorative fancy now places the garish colors of the peacock about the frame of the boudoir mirror; this is as it should be for the peacock parade before her mirror is what the average girl does.

Do not cross so much about the water meter. Do you not know it will not be used during the winter and when you are absent? Therefore, it is the average for the twelve months which tells the tale, not the summer when the consumption of water is the greatest.

Just for the fun of a summer ripple to society, why do not some of the women get up a tennis tea for the Huaco club?

One woman tells you the drip-drip-drip from that old water meter. Wonder if she says nothing is so good for the plants. Who shall decide when doctors disagree? We can tell. Simply experiment for yourself.

Out in California they have a cafe named "The World." And the answer to any of the numerous Goodwin wives patronize it.

While deploring the conduct of the little folks in public places, this does not mean that all the grown-ups are exempt. Some names could be given of absolute bores of men who have not an intimation that the world exists for any but themselves.

Some one was asked, what one asset in woman's character assures her success in the world? And the answer was her power to adapt herself to persons and places. And the one who answered was correct. There are some good women who utterly lack the ability to put themselves into other's places.

Do you know why the four leaf clover is considered good luck?

Some time when you see an orchid look down the center and see if you can find the outline of an animal. There was once the story that the stems of each orchid formed an animal, and that no two are alike.

DECORATORS ARE BUSY

INTERIOR OF THE COTTON PALACE IS TO BE COMPLETELY NEW.

Publicity Agent Has a Lot of Pretty Cards to Give to All Who Call.

The work of tearing out the present Cotton Palace decorations is proceeding rapidly, and when the exposition opens for the fall show the interior will be entirely new as to design and beauty of embellishment. Artists are at work. The change will be wrought as if by magic and the thousands of visitors will be greeted with something entirely new and novel. Year by year Cotton Palace sightseers are shown a changing panorama, and this year it will be of surpassing magnificence.

One of the most interesting features this year will be the zoo, which will contain birds and animals of various kinds to interest and amuse the children, as well as the grown-ups, and all will be included in the great array of free attractions. It is being predicted that this year's attendance will double that of last year, and there is every reason to believe so, as everything will be on a more extensive scale. The new features will draw thousands more to the Cotton Palace, and there are tens of thousands who have determined to take in the exposition this year who have heretofore allowed the opportunity to pass by. People are likewise coming from a greater distance. There will be more special trains into Waco from various neighboring towns. Thousands of visitors from the north will also take in the Cotton Palace to view the great array of exhibits of the soil, the live stock department and features that particularly appeal to them.

Pretty Placeards Available.

The advertising department of the Cotton Palace has had several thousand very beautiful Indian girl placeards printed, showing the dates of the forthcoming exposition. These placeards will be placed upon show cases and at other conspicuous places to remind the people in general of the big fall show. They can be obtained at the office of the Young Men's Business league and everyone interested in the various hotels and public places where they can be seen as constant reminders of the big show and the dates. With a hearty boost all together, the attendance this year will be doubled, and every live Waco merchant, real estate agent, property owner and citizen in general will be supplied with advertising matter upon request.

Publicity Director Davis has his headquarters for the present at the Young Men's Business league, and will be glad to give out advertising matter to all Wacoans. Waco motorists are beginning to fly the Cotton Palace pennants, which is one of the very best species of advertising, and will be of material aid in perpetually reminding everybody about the exposition. Cotton Palace postal cards also are beginning to go from the card racks, so the vendors say, and this augurs well for a great line of publicity.

Following are the traveling agents of The News who are authorized to solicit and accept for subscriptions, advertising, etc.: J. A. Oliver, W. M. Byrd, W. H. Byrd.

LONG ON PRECEPT.

This line or two of comment might be entitled maximally after three distinct thoughts, or themes—having to do, respectively, with the beginning of charity, the limitations of honor to a prophet, the glory of practicing that good which is preached. Imagine our surprise when, lately, reading the brevities of our friend, the editor of the Avoyelles Enterprise, Marksville, La. these forced themselves on our eye and impressed our mind with a great truth:

Hollis Barron, head of the Police Chiefs of Texas, in an address before the convention in Galveston a few days ago, had the following to say relative to automobile speeders:

"Nearly as great a menace to society as pistol toting is the speeding of automobiles. The suggestion that I have to make with reference to the violation of the speed laws and traffic laws is that the judges of the corporation courts impose upon the violators of this law the highest punishment fixed by ordinance, irrespective of the class, color, kind or previous condition of the violator of the law. The maximum punishment assessed against all violators will materially diminish the use of gasoline in most of our cities."

As to the need of stiff fines to stop speeding in the city limits, with all its attendant dangers, Waco's chief of police is exactly right. We are glad to see the seed we have been sowing here has not been blown away altogether—even a crop of precept is better than nothing. "Menace" hath a familiar sound to readers of the Morning News, in this connection.

Capt. Barron's opinion of the nominal fines imposed on speeders and reckless drivers is extremely well founded. But he might be advised that it is also possible to stamp out such dangerous practice without diminishing the use of gasoline. None wants to diminish the use of gasoline. Although, alas! the punishment of reckless, selfish, criminally negligent operators of motor cars and motorcycles (the latter, especially) may not be punished by our city judges as befits the crime, a deal more can be done by Waco's police to minimize the danger.

Our plaudits will be very ready for Capt. Barron if he will see to it that some of his patrolmen on the main-traveled streets tighten their attention as well as their blouses, remove the cheroots from their mouths and their backs from the poles, and pounce on motor car drivers and motorcyclists whose manner of crossing Austin avenue intersections at all times of night and day is a distinct "menace" to the safety of pedestrians.

TOUCHSTONE AT AUSTIN.

It is an interesting, but not a pleasant or a happy situation—these current exchanges of our eminent men that are centering about the executive office in Austin. It is interesting only because it has an end in the changing political alignments in Texas and the affairs of a strong educational institution. It is not pleasant or happy because the State does not fancy its governor and its educators engaged in what obviously partakes too much of the nature of public personal derogation of character. The legislature versus the governor situation is bad enough without adding the situation of the governor in wordy controversy with this politician or that professor individually.

But what an opportunity for studying the various degrees of—er, falsehood. Touchstone analyzed, in the State capital these days. The "short and ugly" word has not been passed, fortunately, but in the press publication of these controversial statements one may not stop with the lie circumstantial. The Houston colonel announces he broke with the executive, in quasi-official relation at least, because the executive referred to him and very close mutual friends as "hotel politician." The governor says he used no such term. The colonel tells us close business associates repeated to him this usage by the governor. The governor says the aforesaid mutual friendship is circumstantial evidence against his having indulged in such unrestrained conversation. Someone is telling the truth, unless, indeed, there was a misunderstanding. "Hotel politician" does not damn a man utterly, does it? under any conditions. But this incident, accurately described or not, is not a matter of consequence to the State. If the governor and the colonel will not confer and politic together further, neither, we think, will consider any public injury has been done or may result. The State's only interest is the involving of its governor in another public situation of assertion and denial. They who gave the Houston colonel this information are well-reputed Texans. So is the governor. So is the colonel. The governor says the information is "not so." Let the State choose in this momentous matter.

But what is really a serious phase of this season of charge and denial in public statements that concern our governor is Colonel Milner's matter in the press Sunday. Though the term is lacking, what the retiring—almost the enforcedly retiring—president of the A. and M. College finds to tell the people of the governor's attitude toward and statements about that institution and its president does not fall far short of the lie direct. In effect, Colonel Milner would have it that the governor, being in possession from him of all the facts and figures concerning the management of the college, used other figures and, as for facts, worked his own feelings and political preferences into the semblance of data purporting to describe conditions at the college. "To show that the statement (in the governor's recent 'pamphlet' about affairs at the A. and M.) is just about as near the truth as you have been able to get in several statements you have made concerning the college as well as myself," Colonel Milner writes in his "open letter" to the governor, through the press; and he goes on to reproduce letters from the governor which seek to prove that the governor was in possession of different information about the college than he gave the public, and that the governor's "facts" were not the true facts.

There has been political interference from without with the college and it emanated from Austin—what thinking Texan really doubts that? Milner is relinquishing the management. The directory is most friendly to the governor who appointed it, of course. Doubtless Milner's successor will be more to Mr. Colquitt's liking. We hope he will be to the college's liking, too, and will serve the college wisely, well and progressively. The A. and M. college situation—the latest—is now a thrice-told tale. None needed to await the president's letter to be made acquainted with the real conditions attending his resignation, and moving it. This newspaper has long told the truth about the institution and attendant political stratagems and spoils.

What must be regretted by all good citizens even more than the unstable state of things in this splendid college caused by political play, is the give and take of charge and counter charge to which the governor is a party, that runs the entire gamut of misrepresentation alleged; and personal scheming at the expense of an educational institution of the State denounced by a man of as unimpeachable character as Col. Robert T. Milner.

POLITICS AND FIRE TRAPS.

"No building where many people are employed will ever be safe while its interior stairways and corridors are masses of kindling wood, as was the case in the Birmingham factory," declares the New York Evening Mail, discussing that horrible burning. "In this case there seems to have been no question of locked or closed doors, or any obstruction of that kind. The fact is simply this—that a building of that construction, crowded with people, is inevitably a fire trap. A fire among inflammable materials, under an inflammable staircase, and that staircase the only interior exit, is bound to cut off all interior means of escape in a few moments. No building erected for such a purpose should be permitted to be used unless it has been made to conform with very rigid rules. Perhaps when we have fire or building inspectors appointed solely for their competence, and not for political reasons, we may hope to have a cessation of such tragedies."

But what is to be said when such fire traps are the State's property, built by the State with the people's money and under State supervision, by order of legislatures whose ideas of public economy were as false as the average theory of perpetual motion? One easily can understand private greed resulting in such public calamities as the Triangle and Binghamton and Iriquois holocausts. But one cannot as easily understand—taking an example of the very worst—the reason why such State buildings in Texas as the negroes' dormitory at the Gatesville "juvenile training" institution are permitted to be used for corraling many human beings year after year for a score of years, after their danger was brought home to lawmakers and public. One hundred or more young negroes are made to sleep behind bars on the third floor of that structure. Interior staircase, exterior staircase, floors and doors are of almost decaying wood, narrow and steep. A liberal estimate of the time it would take for the old stone structure to fall, ablaze, would be ten minutes. And the staircases would go first. This is merely an example. The State fire marshal's recent report shows there are a score of State buildings in relatively as bad case.

We note that the legislative committees are insisting on fire escapes for State institutions, in the current appropriation bill. This is good as far as it goes. But many of these buildings must have fireproof floors and stairs as well.

FOR ANOTHER WELL.

The Morning News has been insistent from the beginning that hot water sufficient to prove of medicinal value can be obtained if the drilling will be carried deep enough. From a spirit of patriotism a number of citizens organized a development company to sink one of the old wells belonging to the city water department to the proper depth. There was every prospect of success until an accident to the machinery prevented further drilling; by a compromise decided upon yesterday the company will get back its original capital and will have a producing well to be turned over to the city water department, where there was a dry hole before. The stockholders who compose the Hot Well Development Company do not need the money they have put into the project; it was patriotism at first, let it be patriotism now. Keep the company intact, sell more stock if possible, and use the funds for development along the same lines. If this capital will bring in another well for the city water department it will be worth the price to the town, and the water department will return the operating capital to the development company, or if the hot well so much desired is the result, so much the better.

In the regular session, last winter, the speaker said the responsibility for legislation was with the governor. Profiting by this blat, in the special session the governor gets his work in first and advises the legislature of its responsibility for the passage of the appropriation bill. The speaker was wrong last winter and the governor is right this summer, in this regard.

The State will attend with a deal of interest, but more curiosity, what its health department may have to say concerning the federal service's report that in six years Texas has had 2628 cases of pellagra with a death rate therefrom of 46.61.

Porter Charlton is mailing photographs to his friends. Hereafter, in a better world than this, his friends doubtless will desire much love and knowledge of Porter.

Will the shooting of an American official in Juarez, and in the back, Saturday, perchance alter the complexion of Henry Lane Wilson's "report?"

Oklahoma City's fire department is out on strike. But we fancy that if any surreptitious store of intoxicants should be threatened by the flames—

There was a cyclone Saturday in the Avant (Okla.) oil fields. The oil business is witnessing a raising of the wind as well as of the price.

And Milner is an honorable man. So are they all—honorable men. O, Texas!

"Hotel Politician." "Political Peace and Legislative Rest." A maker of striking phrases is our governor.

Texas Viewpoints

Green—Melons.

"Editor Green of the Tyler Courier-Times," exposes Lindale Reporter, "is now trying to find a man who can eat a sixty-pound watermelon. A citizen of that place has been trying it every day for a week, but gives it up right around forty-five pounds every time. Really that is too much for everyday consumption. The first thing he knows that fellow will be down with melonitis, and then where will he be?" Down with melonitis, you said, yourself. But L. M. should worry. Any man who preaches potliquor as the only sane, sage, salutary, scrumptious sustenance and then endeavors to sick-on a fellow townsman by melon ignorance, must have a heart of flint. Unless (maybe) this is merely another instance of the colonel's overweening curiosity or a novel attempt at advertising Tyler by making it known that sixty-pounders are to be had every day by the poorest comer, or the greediest.

Soc. Johnson and Alci. Colquitt.

Look on Humorist Moran's portrayal in New Uln Enterprise: "Some well informed people believe that Governor Colquitt and Cone Johnson will join forces for state wide prohibition of whisky traffic, leaving the sale of beer and light wines to be settled by local option sentiment. This proposition would no doubt please the brewers, but it would certainly leave the whisky people—and Comptroller Lane—high and dry in the air." But there are a-many of us who consider the controller has been high in the air—up, up, up—and assuredly he has been "dry" in his attitude, these many years. And—whisper, John—if Oscar should sit at the feet of Cone and learn this wisdom of the disposal of a very sore subject, would not many thoughtful antis rejoice in the conclusion, and even some thoughtful pros? Would not these early closing forces, these cracked "compromises," these "dens" be done away with; would not much of the excuse for agitating be removed from the agitators? Would not the family beer garden replace gradually the open saloon? It seems to us a consummation d. t. b. w.

Become Informed, Brother.

The queer opinion that "those newspapers and those individuals who have been industrially characterizing as 'unjust, unwise and for political purposes only' the State's penalty suit against the Standard Oil Company must now find themselves confused and confounded by the Standard's plea of guilty and acceptance of a half million dollar fine" is the first sprig in Eddy Journal's cluster of mikronette presented to Mr. Looney. If the Journal's editor has been able to imagine confusion and the worse confounding thereof in the editorial comment of those newspapers that have been "wise" to the inwards of that suit from the outset, in treating of the extrinsic settlement, then the Journal's editor is gifted with an imagination beyond that of all other Texas newspaper men. In due time, we hope, there will seep in the light of understanding as to the nature of the "compromise"; the fact that not a single allegation in the State's petition was proved; the fact that every defendant named was adjudged not guilty of the charges; the real reason why Standard of New Jersey was willing to pay $500,000 by way of an ancient accounting; the fact that the most intelligent men in Texas—and we do not refer to the editors and lawyers adverse to this litigation—have been amazed at the outcome that was so foreign to the nature of the suit itself. But consider the ultimate sprig in the Journal's bouquet: "Mr. Looney, doubtless, concerns himself little about 'industrial expansion, commercial activity, unbounded prosperity' and other such bombast, but simply looks round and prosecutes law-breaking trusts like any other conscientious prosecuting officer would do. We need more Looneys." Lovely! We need more public servants who will not concern themselves about the State's business welfare! Big, broad, brainy! The Journal's estimate that "industrial expansion, commercial activity, unbounded prosperity" pleas are "bombast," accounts quite sufficiently for its interpretation of the settlement of a suit against Texas industries that was based on the moss-covered offense of a foreign industry and produced less than half of one per cent of the mint-treasure sued for. "We need more Looneys"—and a few thousand more who are not, by way of offset.

"Fanciful Notions." (Texas Republic, San Antonio.) The Waco Morning News and the Peerless Fire Insurance Company have bought the Provident building in Waco for $225,000. The Morning News evidently isn't a bit afraid that Attorney General Looney might sue them for five hundred million dollars for buying property on the same street their competitor, the Times-Herald, is located on. And congress might want to investigate where The News got all that money from.—Riesel Rustler.

The Republic assumes that the anti-trust laws of Texas must be defended, or, rather, vindicated. The attorney general of Texas entertains some fanciful and absurd notions as to what constitutes a trade or commercial trust. The Katy railroad has been sued for being a trust for extending its system of lines in Texas and every railroad system in the state has subjected itself to a similar suit, for they are all seeking, by either purchase or connecting lines or by the construction of connecting lines of their own, to extend their systems. There are some queer lawyers and politicians in Texas. About ten years ago the legislature seriously undertook to pass a law to prevent men from doing business in more than one place in the state! It was known at the time that it was a move to destroy the connection between the North and South Texas publications of a certain Texas newspaper corporation, believed to be anti-democratic; but the measure was so plainly unjust and it was so plainly demonstrated that it would injuriously affect so many legitimate interests in the state, its passage was abandoned by the promoters of the

Waco and the Morning News

Democratic Press on Bryan.

The newspapers that are saying this chautauqua circuiting by the secretary at a time when our relations with England as to the canal tolls question, with Japan as to the California alien land ownership act, and with Mexico as to the danger to our citizens and recognition of the Huerta domination, "is something quite awful," are largely Democratic newspapers, stanch Wilson newspapers, it may be emphasized.—Waco News.

All is quiet along the Thames and the Panama canal; Japan is not going to commit hara-kiri by going to war with Uncle Sam; the California alien land act trouble is ancient history; the president and the secretary of war will take care of Mexico. Mr. Bryan is entitled to his vacation and to chautauqua lecturing if he pleases. Were not many of the "stanch Wilson newspapers" that object originally Harmon papers, allied with the plutocratic element of the party that Bryan denounced so vigorously at the Baltimore convention?—Houston Chronicle.

Old Doesn't Like Our Poetry. There will be a poet at Austin next week. Hilton R. Greer will be elected today as a representative of the One Hundred and Twenty-fifth district. He hails from Amarillo. He is somewhat of a poet and newspaper man. It remains to be seen if nature intended him for a statesman. He has no opposition for the office. This gives the lie to the old saw that a poet is without honor save in his own country. Now Colonel Mike Harris of McLennan county will get the bug under his hat and do his level best to be seduced into serving the people of McLennan county as one of their representatives in the Thirty-fourth legislature.—Fort Worth Record.

Hilton Greer has almost "poeted" himself to fame. But not so with Col. Harris. In fact, he has made some people mad with his poetry. The people of McLennan county are very wary and cautious; and we feel sure that they will never tolerate any such political "bumcombe" as this.—Austin Statesman.

Improving the Parcel Post. (Baltimore Sun.)

At the time the parcel post was put in operation David J. Lewis and its strongest advocates declared the weight limit was placed too low, and that the rates, in some instances, were too high. There was also the annoyance of having to buy special stamps, and merchants were unable to send goods "C. O. D." Postmaster General Burleson has set himself to remedy the defects brought out in practice. Raising the weight limit from 11 to 20 pounds, almost double, is but preliminary to the further increase that is sure to come, and in time Mr. Burleson expects to see the limit placed at a hundred pounds, which will care for nearly everything except bulky freight.

The arrangement of zones has been changed so that the first zone includes the entire territory within the local delivery while the second zone is extended to cover the territory within a radius of 150 miles of the sending office. The first zone rates will be reduced from 5 cents for the first pound and 1 cent for each additional pound to 3 cents for the first pound and 1 cent for each additional pound. In the second zone the excess rate over one pound has been reduced from 3 cents on the 5-cent rate and 4 cents on the 6-cent rate to a uniform excess charge of 1 cent a pound. That is a material reduction, especially on the larger packages sent by farmers, draymen, packers and merchants. The rates, in many instances, have been much higher by post than by express on larger packages, while smaller parcels are carried for less by post. This will enable the post to compete for the heavier traffic.

The fact that nearly twice as many packages have been carried as was estimated demonstrates the success of the new system, insofar as it has been. With the changes made by Postmaster General Burleson, the business will be largely increased. Express rates have been reduced and service improved to meet competition, and the whole country is getting better service at lower rates. The parcel post is moving on to perfection, and as defects appear they will be remedied, as the demand increases the system will be improved, so that it is not unreasonable for Mr. Burleson to believe that in fifteen or twenty years the postal service will handle practically all the small package business.

It was a long time coming, but now that the parcel post is here, we have quickly adapted it as a necessity. Not one former opponent is bold enough to advocate its discontinuance. It is here to stay, and the wonder is that we managed for so many years to get along without it.

Custom Stronger Than Law. (New York World.)

In its practical effect the decision of the United States supreme court declaring unconstitutional the civil rights act of 1875, which prohibited discrimination against persons of color, will make little difference. Today the negro has more rights than it was attempted to secure for him by the act of congress after the Civil war. He has won these rights for himself with the assistance of time. In such matters custom slowly and painfully finds solutions that written statutes fail to provide.

To think that race prejudices could be wiped out at one stroke by legislation was the foolish dream of men like Sumner. What they really accomplished was to intensify prejudice to the disadvantage of the negro. Little by little the civil rights acts have been whittled away by the courts until nothing of it is left, but in the end the negro is better off.

Bullet That Has Wings. (Scientific American.)

Tests have been made in Germany with a special projectile intended to repel dirigibles and designed not only to pierce a gas envelope, but also to set fire to the gas. This projectile, fired from an old model of German rifle, is provided with little wings that open in flight under the influence of a spring.

An ordinary bullet leaves such a small hole in an envelope that the gas escapes through it but slowly. The wings on the improved bullet tear a hole appreciable size in the fabric. What is more, they retard the bullet sufficiently to cause a friction device to ignite fulminate contained in the bullet. It is said that experiments conducted at Neumanswald gave encouraging results.

measure. In only too many cases is political spite work or flagrant graft at the bottom of all such attempted laws.

TO THE CLIENTS OF THE Dilworth Abstract Co.

If you are the legal owner and holder of any note executed prior to July 14, 1905, secured by any character of lien upon real estate and which matured more than four years prior to July 1, 1913, you must under the Acts of the Thirty-third Texas Legislature bring suit within one year after July 1, 1913, to foreclose and collect the same, or extend the same as noted below, or the note will be barred by limitation on July 1, 1914, and rendered uncollectable by law.

If any note secured by any character of lien upon real estate is extended, the former method of extension by endorsement upon the note is now insufficient. The extension must be by written contract, signed and acknowledged as required by law for deeds, and placed of record; or the same will be within four years from maturity barred by limitation.

The above is merely a brief statement of the law which radically affects all lien-holders, who should promptly refer to their lawyers for further information.

Respectfully,

DENOUNCES CLARK RIDER TO TARIFF

COTTON MAN SAYS WILL COST THE COTTON CROP $300,000,000.

COMPETITION IS LESSENER

Tax of 50 Cents Per Bale Will Be Paid by Farmer—Every Spot Sale Affected.

New Orleans, July 28.—Declaring that if the Clark rider to the proposed tariff bill becomes a law, the effect of changed conditions because of the absence of hedging "may cost on the coming crop anywhere from $100,000,000 to $300,000,000 or possibly $400,000,000," the New Orleans Cotton Exchange today issued an official statement protesting against the Clark rider which provides a tax of one-tenth of 1 per cent per pound upon cotton futures or an average of 50 cents per bale. The statement is signed by W. P. Stewart, vice and acting president, and H. G. Hester, secretary.

"In order to correct any misunderstanding," says the statement, "this exchange asserts positively that the cotton futures contract business and the system of hedging through future contracts which have saved many hundreds of millions of dollars in the marketing of the south's cotton crop will be completely destroyed if the Clark rider to the tariff bill becomes a law."

The statement adds that competition will be lessened because under the rider buyers will be forced to require a heavy margin between buying and selling prices and the necessity for increased capital and credit will drive out nearly all of the small buyers, "and consequent competition therefrom."

It is also pointed out that this tax of 50 cents per bale will be paid by the producer, because the "buyer will see to it that the tax comes out of the price he pays to the farmer, thus making the latter bear the burden."

It is also pointed out that nine-tenths of the crop is moved through the means of hedging agreements, and that every sale of spot cotton on any terms will be affected by the tax.

"There is no way of computing what may be the effect of the changed conditions under the Clark rider as a law," says the statement in closing, "but it is not unreasonable to expect that the absence of hedging may cost the incoming crop anywhere from one hundred to three hundred or possibly four hundred million dollars. This loss will be from decrease in prices which must be borne by the producers."

It is quite another thing to make them so that they are always better than all other soda crackers, always of unvarying goodness.

The name "Uneeda"—stamped on every biscuit—means that if a million packages of Uneeda Biscuit were placed before you, you could choose any one of them, confident that every soda cracker in that package would be as good as the best Uneeda Biscuit ever baked. Five cents.

HUERTA TO BE DEPOSED NOW THE PEACE PLAN

to rehabilitate the finances of the republic. In the meantime the constitutional army would be moved to assist in pacifying the country where bandits hold sway and a presidential campaign would be begun. Since Ambassador Wilson has come to Washington a report has been current that President Huerta had informed the ambassador that he did not desire to be a candidate for reelection.

Officials Welcome Plan.

Washington officials have expressed no opinion as to the merits of the plan for bringing about peace in Mexico through mediation of Mexicans themselves, but it is known that they are vitally interested in the financial situation in Mexico, particularly as it relates to the depreciation of foreign investments, and any plan looking toward a reconstruction of the country's finances would be welcomed.

That both the president and Secretary Bryan are greatly concerned over the tangled financial state of Mexico was apparent from the questions which they asked of both their official and unofficial agents. Incidentally E. N. Brown, president of the Mexican National Railways, who saw Secretary Bryan today, was interrogated about the condition of the railways where loss of revenue and destruction of property have been great on account of the revolution.

In Ambassador Wilson's report particular attention also was given by him to the condition of banks in Mexico, due to heavy drains by the Huerta government on the resources of Mexico's big banking institutions.

In this connection it became known that the diplomatic note, citing financial conditions in Mexico as desperate because of the failure of the United States to recognize the Huerta government, had been signed by the representatives in Mexico City of Great Britain, France, Italy, Spain and Belgium. Just which countries transmitted the note to the United States for information has not been divulged.

Some of these points were touched upon in today's conference between the president, the secretary of state and Ambassador Wilson. The ambassador had previously submitted an historical statement of conditions in the turbulent republic during the last three years. The president had studied it when the ambassador met him today. The ambassador supplemented it with a statement of the remedies which he would suggest and plans for a definite policy to be followed by the American government.

No Policy Outlined.

After the conference the ambassador dictated a statement declaring that the discussion had related entirely to the facts of the situation and not to questions of policy. These, he said, were in writing and in the hands of the president for consideration. Secretary Bryan's announcement that no policy had been agreed upon as yet, taken in connection with other information, tonight was regarded as forecasting a slow and careful policy on the part of the administration here before any steps are taken which would reflect the conclusions of the president or Secretary Bryan.

The president has in hand a vast amount of information from which to deduce a policy. He has not only the data gathered in official channels but the letters and reports of trustworthy unofficial representatives such as William Bayard Hale, his intimate friend and biographer, and Reginald Francisco Del Valle, close friend of Secretary Bryan, who has just returned from a two-months' inspection of conditions. Besides this, the president now has the views of the constitutionalists as outlined by some of their most able exponents.

The plan of mediation is still being discussed in congressional circles. Senator Bacon, chairman of the foreign relations committee, thinks it would be a good plan, if the Mexicans would consent to it.

Reports to the state department today said that vigorous measures would be taken by Mexican federal soldiers dispatched to capture the marauders who sacked the American plantations in the vicinity of Frontera. Many of the bandits have been taken and killed, and it is expected that the plantations will be reopened soon.

Americans in Mexico, concerning whom inquiry has been made at the department and whose safety is vouchsafed, include the family of John A. Thompson, now in Saltillo preparing to sail for Virginia via New York; Dr. Jumper, thought to be in Torreon; Thomas L. Hammill of Fort Worth, safe and well at Vera Cruz; and Mr. Rousefield, safe in Mexico City.

Reports from San Diego say that an issue of paper currency is being put into forcible circulation there by the Carranzistas.

Both Factions Willing.

With both factions in Mexico City really willing to accept mediation, it would be entirely practicable to conduct free and fair elections and install a constitutional government, in the opinion of Judge Advocate General Enoch H. Crowder of the United States army.

General Crowder, father of the present Cuban electoral system, has just returned from a western trip, which, though primarily intended for the purpose of inspecting military prisons in that section of the country, was extended to cover the Mexican border. While conditions in Mexico are somewhat different from those existing in Cuba at the period of American intervention, he believes that a peaceful and fair election could be held without actual intervention. Experiences in Cuba showed that though troops were at the polling places their services were never required.

An interesting question regarding the disposition to be made of fugitive rebels on the border was brought to the attention of the state department today by a report that Carranzista officers in Ciudad Porfirio Diaz have requested permission to cross into Eagle Pass, Texas, leaving their wounded behind.

Federal troops are advancing on the town from the state of Nuevo Leon. Following the precedent set in the case of several detachments of federal troops driven across the line, these constitutionalists if they cross with arms in hand or otherwise than individuals, will be interned.

Reports from Mexico City today indicated a generally better feeling toward Americans there. The government has opposed any press comments anti-American in tone.

be carried to a point where the department will have to take action.

"There is and always has been a narrow market for the two per cent bonds, just as there is for many inactive although high grade corporation bonds, and every one knows how easy it is to put up or down the quotations for such bonds, especially when a favoring state of mind has been skillfully created.

"The department has, because of its relation to the banks and its necessarily important part in the financial affairs of the country, a deep interest in the welfare of the banks, in the stability of the financial situation and in a continuance of the prosperity now attaching to agricultural and industrial enterprises and general business."

For these reasons, the secretary said, he had hoped that the banks would not consider a suggestion from him impertinent.

In many quarters, he said, there is a disposition on the part of banks to restrict legitimate credits. He thought there is nothing in the situation to warrant such a course, and declared the banks should not put undue restraints on business. Should any unusual stringency appear, the secretary said, it could easily be met through resort to the $500,000,000 emergency currency now held in reserve, which can be issued if the banks need it, or by use of the resources of the treasury department, or both.

In conclusion the secretary said with emphasis there would be no financial troubles, that the large crops now in prospect will be moved without difficulty and that the powers of the department would be exercised in their greatest amplitude for the protection of the business interests of the country.

Local News Notes.

An illustrated lecture will be given at the Down Town Mission tonight beginning at 8:15 o'clock. Rev. I. S. Boyles will deliver the lecture and slides illustrating his remarks will be shown. Music will also be furnished. Ageneral invitation is extended by those supporting the mission.

Next Monday night the company will put on new reels and a vaudeville. The roof garden performances are creating a great deal of local interest during the summer.

SWISS GUARDS OF THE VATICAN.

Personal Attendants of the Pope for More Than Four Hundred Years. (Catholic Encyclopedia.)

The special military guardians of the palace are the Swiss Guards. The commander has the rank of a colonel of the regular troops and is addressed by this title.

The Swiss has its special chaplain and chapel, SS. Martino Semastiano, built by Pius V in 1565. Every candidate for the Guards must be a native Swiss, a Catholic, of legitimate birth, unmarried, under 25 years of age, at least 5 feet 8 inches in height, healthy and free from bodily disfigurements. After 15 years' service each member of the Guards is entitled to a pension for life, amounting to one-half of his pay, and after 30 years' service to full pay.

The Guards are responsible for the guarding of the sacred person of the pope and the protection of the apostolic palaces, all exits from the palaces to the city and the entrance doors to the papal apartments being entrusted to their charge. They have also to take up their position in all pontifical functions in the papal chapels and in all other religious functions, both within and without the apostolic palaces, at which the pope assists.

The religious privileges of the Guards are very extensive. In all public processions the Swiss Guards take their place immediately behind the Noble Guard. As guards they are subject to the prefect of the apostolic palaces and were not in earlier times, like the regular troops, to the ministry of war. When the pope occupies the sedia gestatoria, he is surrounded by six of the Swiss Guards, who carry the large swords known as "double-handed." The commander of the Guards is an ex-officio privy chamberlain, and has the entry into the Anticamera Segreta; the lieutenant and the sub-lieutenant are ex-officio honorary chamberlains, and have the entry only to the throne room, which lies before the Anticamera Segreta. The Swiss Guards are fully armed and have to submit to a strict course of exercise and gymnastics. Football is prohibited by them in the Cortile del Bevedere, and their trumpet corps is splendidly organized. On solemn occasions, such as special functions in the German cemetery, near St. Peter's (Campo Santa Teutonico), which is also the burial place for the Guards, the trumpet corps appears in public.

Even in the fifteenth century the popes possessed a body guard of the Catholic Swiss. In 1505, at the instance of the Swiss Cardinal Schinner, a treaty was made by Julius II with the two cantons of Zurich and Lucerne, in accordance with which these cantons had to supply constantly 250 men as a bodyguard to the pope. Since this date there has always been about the pope a corps of Swiss Guards.

At present the Guards possess a strength of exactly 100 men (this has been reduced to 80), including the six officers, who suffice not only for the complete discharge of the various duties of the corps, but also for the maintenance of a watch over the pope during the night. Their old picturesque uniform of black, red and yellow, in the sixteenth century style, is still retained. A black hat with red strings has recently replaced the very ugly helmet. While exercising, on night watch or in the barracks, the men wear a steel-blue undress uniform, consisting of wider tunic, knee breeches, dark blue stockings and buckled shoes. On especially solemn occasions both men and officers appear in military uniforms, with weapons and helmets.

The barracks of the Guards lie at the foot of the palace of Sixtus V. A portion of the building was erected in 1492, during the reign of Alexander VI. The canteen of the Guards furnishes them with their board.

animals secrete a particularly virulent venom in the large glands on each side of the head. When attacked they have the power of ejecting this poison with deadly effect.

It is estimated that a dose of one thousandth of a gram will throw a guinea pig into violent convulsions and ultimately cause death. The deadlyness of this toxin closely approximates that of the protein extract of the cat's paw called "ricin," hitherto the most deadly poison known. The scientific name for these creatures is Scaphiophrynus. They are said to reach sometimes a length of eight inches and to prey upon field rats and small birds.

Dr. Rowntree discovered in experimenting that the poison is a heart stimulant, acting directly upon the cardiac muscle, when administered in sufficient dilution. It is declared that in the future this drug will supplant digitalis and other heart stimulants because of its greater potency and the ease with which quantities of it can be obtained.

Hitherto reptilian or amphibian venom never have been extremely used in medical practices as they are prone to cause what is known as "hemolysis," or destruction of the red blood corpuscles and subsequent fatal anemia. Dr. Rowntree thinks he has solved this problem, for he says that his preparation exhibits none of these properties.

The doctor expects to visit Munich and some of the other great medical centers of Germany in order to demonstrate his discovery.

BREAK IN RANKS OF REPUBLICANS

PROGRESSIVE DIVISION HELD
CONFERENCES TO SUBSTITUTE SCHEDULES.

UNABLE TO SUPPORT SMOOT

Townsend Makes Speech Condemning Tariff Bill—Criticism Lobby Inquiry—Senators in Line.

Washington, July 28.—A division in the ranks of republican senators over the tariff revision fight became apparent today when nearly a dozen progressive republicans began a series of conferences to perfect substitute schedules that will be offered to the tariff bill under the leadership of Senators La Follette and Cummins.

The progressive republican move has grown out of the belief of leading senators that the tariff bill is so defective that it would be unable to support Senator Smoot's substitute for the woolen tariff. The Smoot substitute was prepared some time ago, and introduced at the time the democratic tariff bill came back from the finance committee. The progressive republicans have practically agreed to center their fight about the La Follette substitute in the hope that they can carry the balance of the republican party with them and possibly win some democratic votes away from Smoot.

Prepared speeches were made by Senators Townsend and Warren, republicans, and short assaults occurred throughout the afternoon upon specific items which the republicans held to be too radical reductions from existing laws.

Progressives Solid.

The progressive republican forces so far have shown no disposition on the floor of the senate to break with their republican associates, except in a few votes where they joined the democrats in support of lower duties. The conferences, which began today, however, are expected to solidify the progressive element and bring about a new alignment of the republican forces. Senator La Follette's cotton and wool substitutes and Senator Cummins' metal substitute were under consideration in the conference today and probably will be supported by the progressives. It is expected that a substitute sugar tariff, similar to that which Senator Bristow succeeded in getting through the senate in the last session of congress, will have the progressive strength behind it.

Townsend Condemns Bill.

Senator Townsend of Michigan in a speech in the senate today characterized the Payne-Aldrich tariff law as "the Gettysburg where the factions of the republican party were formed in battle array," that led to the triumph of the democratic party, giving it an opportunity to write the pending tariff bill, which he condemned.

"This bill," Senator Townsend said, "was conceived in hatred of the American policy of protection and brought forth in the dark of the secret caucus chamber of one who has never had any experience in business or politics."

Injecting comments on the lobby inquiry in the senate and house, Senator Townsend said that criticism of improper action should be based upon unquestioned facts and not upon innuendo or falsehood and continued today, as at all times, the sensationalist, too prominently featured and too little attention given to the truth.

Eleven Progressives in Line.

Eleven progressive republican senators tentatively agreed today to support Senator La Follette's sub-schedules on cotton and wool.

Senator Warren attacked a remark made several days ago by Senator Williams that the last election gave him authority for the statement that the people favored a tariff for revenue only. Senator Warren maintained that there was no such majority expression of opinion because the presidential campaign was three-cornered and the democrats won by a majority vote.

Senator Warren declared the pending tariff bill warranted a feeling of apprehension and its enactment into law would force American industry to compete with all the world. Members of congress, he said, could fool themselves into the belief that a tariff for revenue would result in lower wages and depressing times, but they could not fool the people, "who will be quick to act" when they discover that the tariff has injured them.

World's Oldest Currency.

Now that the 3000 bankers and economists are wracking their brains over the 32 varieties of banking reform questions, it is worth while remarking that the youngest republic of the world probably has forgotten more on the currency question than all the ilk of congressmen and economists ever knew. In speaking of China's bank note currency Dr. Louis Livingston Seaman of this city, president of the China Society of America, says that China has already developed a highly creditable currency "at a time when the ancestry of the six-powers syndicate were groping in the darkness of feudalism."

Dr. Seaman was a strong advocate of Chinese recognition, and the efforts of the China society had not a little to do with the early step on the part of our government. It was he who presented to the British museum a few years ago a Chinese bank note issued early in the Ming dynasty, which began in 1368. For a somewhat similar looking note the museum paid 500 pounds.

The note measures 9 by 13 inches, and is, apparently, printed from wooden blocks. It calls for "one string of cash," and bears the following rather curious legend: "Government money order of Ming dynasty, current any-where under heaven. Government money order issued by the board of revenue in accordance with their memorial approved by the throne. This shall not be accepted as copper cash. Counterfeiters hereof will be executed. Persons giving information of counterfeiters will be rewarded with tael 250, and, in addition, will receive property belonging to the criminals." This was signed with the Emperor's name.

Glacial Ice Coming.

(Hartford American.)

A Norwegian who has been reading the reports of a threatened ice famine in some of the big cities along the Atlantic coast of the United States is preparing to carve up one of the glaciers that are to be found at the river heads of Norway and bring this frozen commodity to the American market. There is no apparent reason why Norway glacier ice should not be sold at a profit in those cities where the retail price of ice has been advanced to a figure far beyond that which prevailed last year.

Off the coast of Newfoundland, less than 1000 miles to the northward of New York city, are floating icebergs big enough to supply the needs of 20,000,000 of people through the hottest of summers. The average man who buys his ice in small blocks has doubtless often wondered why these huge bergs should not be blown up with dynamite and towed down the coast in sections for summer consumption in the large coastal cities of the United States. The Norwegian is proposing to do something like this, only he will saw his bergs into small blocks and load them on ships. Thus the transportation will be more rapid and loss from melting less.

I recommend your wonderful medicine to all sufferers as I think it is a blessing for all women."—Mrs. L. E. WYCKOFF, 112 S. Ashley St., Ann Arbor, Mich.

There need be no doubt about the ability of this grand old remedy, made from the roots and herbs of our fields, to remedy woman's diseases. We possess volumes of proof of this fact, enough to convince the most skeptical. Why don't you try it?

LODGE IN DENIAL TO LOBBY PROBE

SENATOR DECLARES HE NEVER SAW LOBBYIST BEFORE INVESTIGATION.

DESCRIBES "SECRET ROOM"

Mysterious Place To Be Inspected by Committee—Letters Mention
Political Leaders.

Washington, July 28.—Martin M. Mulhall sat on the witness stand before the senate lobby committee today and listened to another senator deny his statements. Senator Lodge, mentioned as one of many with whom the former lobbyist for the National Association of Manufacturers had held political conferences, declared he didn't know the witness and never had heard of him until the present investigation began.

Mulhall's correspondence read today brought him into the year 1911, when the house became democratic. In many of his letters that year he spoke of interviews with Majority Leader Underwood, Wm. B. Wilson, Secretary of Labor in President Wilson's cabinet, then chairman of the house labor committee, James T. Lloyd, of the First Missouri district, chairman of the democratic congressional committee, and other prominent men. He wrote in the strain he used all through his letters to J. P. Bird, the general manager of the association, and other officials of having men appointed to committees, of preventing legislation, and of generally having of government in Washington. He mentioned in several letters with assurance that he expected to have even greater success with the democratic house than he had boasted he had in the days of republican rule, but questioned by the committee, said he had been too optimistic in his prophecy.

Mulhall took up his relations with Representative J. T. McDermott, one time chief page of the house, and confidential secretary to the representative. He identified what he swore was a receipt for $100 given him by McDermott for service in September and October, 1911, and reiterated that McDermott borrowed money which he never paid back.

Reed Interested in Secret Room.

Senator Reed became deeply interested in talk about a "secret room" which Mulhall said McDermott secured for his use on the lower floor of the west front of the capitol on the house side. He described that as quite a mysterious place and the committee will inspect it later. Mulhall went to the length of making arrangements to hire a stenographer who he intended to place in this room. He wrote to Bird about the room and the stenographer.

"The employment of a stenographer and locating her in that room," said Bird in reply, "would place me in a doubtful position and one that I can not accept, feeling that the association can not afford to lay itself liable to the slightest suspicion."

Mulhall said he, McDermott and McDermott used the room and that they frequently made long distance telephone calls from the room and called up senators and members of the house there. All through today's letters Mulhall appeared in opposition to legislation favoring labor. He swore that there was a labor lobby in Washington then, in which Samuel Gompers, Frank Morrison and other officials of the American Federation of Labor were conspicuous figures.

Questioned by Senator Nelson, he said that the labor people were trying to do about what the manufacturers were trying to do, only working in the opposite direction.

The committee made little progress today. Senator Reed read extracts from dozens of letters referring to the franking of books and seeds, bulbs and other things through the mails to friends of the association.

One of the letters to go in was dated October 25, 1911, from Mulhall to General Manager Bird, offering his resignation. The committee did not finish its examination of Mulhall on the subject but he declared he got into difficulty with the executive board of the organization after he made a campaign trip to Maine. He will tell the whole story of his separation from the service tomorrow.

When an Englishman Travels

He is Prepared for Any Emergency Even on Half Day Trips.

(Helen Hembidge in the Delicater.)

The equipment of the traveling Englishman is the eighth wonder of the world. He is ready for any emergency from golf to sudden death. I recollect once being in a compartment on the Paris boat train with an English family and their luggage and I do not remember ever being so pleasantly entertained as I was on that trip. As to the luggage there were twenty-nine pieces of the hand variety which it took "Pater" a half hour to dovetail into the racks while the train stood in the dingy station at Calais, and another half hour to pry out when we reached the dreadful Gare du Nord. This was only a detail, however, and I never, never in my life saw a man work harder to get a family of three women comfortably settled. It was in vain that they protested against more wraps and rugs, against smelling salts and speckled fruit. Being a man, he knew so much better than they what they needed and he gently but firmly had his way.

Finally he dozed off to sleep, resting audibly from his labors. He had taken off his great coat with its amazing capes and pockets, and as his coat tails became parted in his somnolent writhings I plainly saw a good sized holster protruding through the afore-said coat tails, evidently strapped around his portly waist.

"Ah!" I said to myself, "here we have a mystery! My comrade is perhaps a spy en route to Germany." This holster—with its supposed brace of firearms—fascinated me unspcakably, and about it I built a lovely blood-curdling romance as we sped on through the monotonous French country. Finally my neighbor awoke, rosy and refreshed, and upon one of his daughters asking him some question about Paris, he unbuckled the holster, took it off, and while I watched with bulging eyes, opened it and calmly extracted—a Baedeker! What else that deceiving case may have contained I have no means of knowing—perhaps caviar sandwiches or a bottle of Scotch.

San Antonio, July 28.—When Kibler stole home in the sixth, with the score tied, two out, and a weak hitter up, San Antonio really won the final game with Waco here today, although another run was added later and the final score was 3 to 1. The brilliant fielding of both teams, errorless ball being played throughout, was the main feature, although Morton's tossing was exceptional.

St. Louis, July 28.—Mathewson pitched unbeatable ball against St. Louis today and New York won 4 to 0. Doak held the champions hitless during the last two rounds and after waiting the first two men to face him, Harmon steadied and was almost as good as Matty for six innings. Sensational plays by Fletcher and Shafer atoned for three harmless errors made between them.

Chicago 9, Boston 4.
Chicago, July 28.—Chicago and Boston gave a farcical exhibition of baseball today and at the finish the score stood 9 to 4 in favor of the locals. The slow fielding behind Tyler, who was on the mound for the visitors, was responsible for the large score of the home club. As a conclusion to the game, Phelan played the famous hit, den ball trick on Collins, a pinch runner, and the game was over.

The Score:	AB	R	H	O	A	E
Boston	019	001	002	4	9	2
Chicago	111	416	009	9	11	2

St. Louis 4, Washington 1.
St. Louis, July 28.—A base on balls to Shotton, a single by Pratt and a homerun by Williams, all in the first inning, proved Joe Roehling's ungoing in his attempt today to establish a record for the season of straight victories in the major leagues. The final score was 4 to 1. Until today Roehling had not lost a game this season, and his string of eleven straight wins stands as the American league record and ties that of the National league, held by Alexander of Philadelphia. Mitchell pitched good ball for the visitors and never was in danger.

St. Louis 300 000 100—4
Washington 000 010 000—1
Summary: Stolen bases, Mitchell and Alexander; Roehling and Henry.

Californians Lead In Western Tennis

Chicago, July 28.—Playing for the first time on grass courts, California's new pair of tennis stars, John Strachan and Clarence Griffin, fought their way through two rounds each in the western championship today at Onwentsia.

In Jerry Webber of the Wanderers' club of Chicago, Strachan almost caught a tartar, but he was the opening games of each set he was returned victor 6-2 and 6-3.
Griffin defeated D. F. Wiley of Evanston in the opening match 6-2, 6-0. Half an hour later Griffin's business-like style had disposed of W. U. Knight of Minneapolis, nearly as easily 6-2, 6-1.
Kent McNeal of Berwin was Strachan's second victim, 6-1, 3-3.
A. Lindauer, Chicago, defeated J. D. Adoue, Dallas, 6-4, 4-6, 6-3.

AMERICANS WIN INTERNATIONAL TENNIS TROPHY AT WIMBLEDON

McLoughlin Wins the Deciding Match From English Veteran—Californian Plays Most Brilliant Game of Career—His Sportsmanlike Conduct.

Wimbledon, Eng., July 28.—World supremacy in lawn tennis rests with the United States. The struggle for the Dwight F. Davis trophy, emblematic of the international tennis championship, ended today on the Wimbledon courts in a victory for the United States when Maurice E. McLoughlin, the American singles champion, defeated Charles P. Dixon, the veteran English player at 8-6, 6-3, 6-2.

The rules of the cup contest called for the best 3 in 5 matches, and the Americans previously had taken a match each in the singles and the doubles.
The Britishers had gained their only point when J. S. Parke, the Irish player, won a singles match from McLoughlin last week. The official scores of the tournament, however, will read:
United States, 3; Great Britain, 2; for, after the McLoughlin-Dixon match today, R. Norris Williams of Philadelphia played his scheduled match with Parke, the Irishman, winning after five sets, 6-2, 5-7, 5-7, 6-4, 6-2. The Davis cup now goes back to the land of its donor after the most interesting fight for its possession since it first left home in 1902.

The victory of the Americans today will all the more memorable because it was the first time in the history of the cup that seven countries—the United States, Canada, Australia, South Africa, Germany, France and Belgium—competed in elimination matches for the honor of challenging the British holders.
Despite his loss in singles to Parke last Friday, McLoughlin generally is given the credit for lifting the cup. The dazzling, daring playing of the Californian and his sportsmanlike actions during the tournament so endeared him to the British followers of the game that, in spite of the keen disappointment at the loss of the cup, the crowd which witnessed today's crucial match gave the Californian the spontaneous ovation usually reserved for home idols.

The veteran English player made a supreme effort, putting all the finesse and science of which he is master into the game, but his youthful opponent, after the first set, broke down his defense at every turn. The American at first appeared over anxious because of the responsibility resting upon him, for in the opening set the loss of one of his service games and inaccuracy of drives gave the Englishman enough acres to make a deuce set before victory perched upon the racquet of the Californian.
In the second set McLoughlin got into his stride and thereafter treated the crowd to a quality of service and overhead strokes never before seen on the historic Wimbledon courts.
British followers of tennis are depressed over the possibility of recovering the cup and freely predict that it will remain in the United States for at least five years, as there are no young players in sight to take the place of the veteran experts, of whom Parke, the youngest, is over thirty years old.
Robert D. Wrenn, president of the United States Lawn Tennis association, was highly elated over the success of the Americans.
"McLoughlin," said Mr. Wrenn,

"simply overpowered his clever opponent. Today he played the greatest game I ever saw him put up."

McLoughlin modestly disclaimed the credit for winning the cup.
"I had no plan of battle when I stepped on the courts today," the Californian said. "I certainly didn't feel confident of winning, but I felt physically fit for a hard match. I want another trial at A. F. Wilding, the English singles champion, if I can get away for a trip to England next summer."

The exhibition match won by Parke over Williams was rather tame, neither man seemingly playing up to his best form and the American apparently not taking the contest as seriously as he would have done if the fate of the cup had depended upon it.

GRAND STAND FALLS

CRASH AT GALVESTON, BUT NO ONE IS SERIOUSLY INJURED IN ACCIDENT.

Races Are the Greatest Event—Fast Time Is Made on Beach Speedway.
Galveston, Texas, July 28.—With 5,000 people impatiently waiting for the crack of the starter's pistol, which would send some of the most daring speed demons of the race course surging over the sands of the Galveston beach in the first ten mile event this afternoon, the central section of the grandstand gave way, tottered and fell forward, carrying with it a struggling, surging screaming mass of humanity.

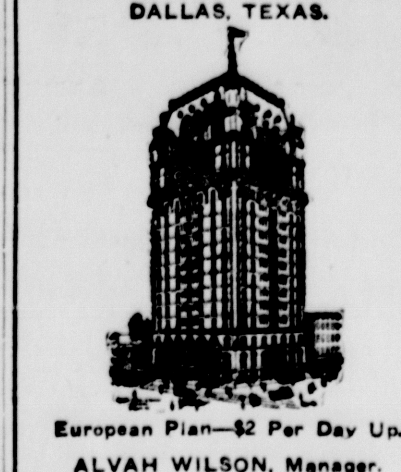

As the top of the stand was covered with spectators instead of luncheon but few of the thousands carried down were injured beyond shocks and nervous collapse. Among the injured was Ethel Flournoy of Waco, who sustained severe bruises about the chest, hips and back. She also suffered such severe shock that for a time she was unconscious. She was conveyed to the local hospital where she received attention and from where comes the report tonight that she is not seriously injured.

Others badly injured were George Wacker of San Antonio, who was badly lacerated about the head, but Mrs. A. Durango of Galveston, who sustained a broken leg and, Miss May Boyd of Galveston, whose ankle was dislocated. Many others were more or less injured but their names and addresses can not be learned inasmuch as they were conveyed to private residences for medical attention.

The races this afternoon were far above the average both as to driver and cars entered and as to time made.
In the first event, ten-mile race, George DeWitt drove his own Gila Monster across the ribbon in 11 seconds and 6-100 of a second. Mosley was second in Hartman's Studebaker, finishing in 11.45 seconds.
In the fifteen-mile race Ferguson, driving his Peugeot, crossed the ribbon in 11.59.29 minutes. Mulford finished second in a Gibson, making the fifteen miles in 12:03.55 minutes.
The next event, ten-mile race, was won by Chandler, who drove Mason Special, making the distance in 9 minutes and 58 seconds. Ulbricht was second, in 10 minutes and 3 seconds.

The first 100 miles of the 300-mile sweepstakes race was won by Louis Dighrow in his Simplex, covering the distance in 50 minutes and 50 seconds. Chandler was second in Mason Special, making the distance in 56 minutes and 26 seconds.
The one-mile race with flying start was run but timing device failed to record the time.
There is no information in Waco of Ethel Flournoy and it is supposed there is a mistake made in giving her home town.

Comfort and Elegance

A genuine, tailor-made Suit you can only obtain by leaving your order with an experienced tailor. The average man that is measured for a suit, wants something better than he can get in a store that handles only ready-mades. But, although he pays for a tailor-made Suit, he can not get it unless it is made in town, so that he can try it on once or twice. I have a large stock of woollens suitable for this particular time and season, and I am able to make a Suit on very short notice.

daries secured by the Hagenbeck agents had been pushed the steamer picked up a total of 403 of the animals, and proceeded to Swakopmund, in German Southwest Africa. On its arrival, well within the stipulated three months, only six of the beasts had perished in transit—an amazingly low number, which spoke volumes for the excellent system of the Hagenbeck organization. The other shipments followed in due course. The German government was so eminently satisfied with the handling of this remarkable order by Hagenbeck and the quality of the "stock" that it promptly ordered another thousand, as per sample.

Hagenbeck was indefatigable, not only in buying and selling animals, but in training them, developing new methods of caring for them and looked out for every conceivable kind of novelty in the animal kingdom. One of his last achievements before his death was the creation of a model ostrich farm, where he obtained very successful results. Emperor William of Germany paid a visit to this unique place and personally inspected the ostriches, big and little, which inhabited it.

For Sale—Real Estate.

If You Wish to Buy, Sell or Exchange Real Estate CONSULT WITH US

NECESSITY

Compels the sale of a beautiful home on Colorado; the present owner must leave town and has asked us to make a quick sale, which we cannot help from doing with the price we have on this place.

In checking up we find that one of the bargains of last week seems to be still pending, we do not like to repeat, but this is such a bargain that we feel that we are doing you an injustice not to again bring it before you, so here it is: 5-room house and 5 lots. Let us show you this property; we want to show you what a bargain looks like.

A good investment is the 50x165 feet on Austin street, an extra well built two-story brick, divided into two stories, and now offered, bringing a good revenue. This property is well located and the price is $75,000, 1-3 cash, balance on long time.

$40,000 invested on Franklin street, right in the heart of the rapidly developing district, and will bring good revenue to the purchaser.

25 feet on Elm street, will prove of considerable interest to a person looking for an investment. This is interesting. See us about it.

A choice corner in Highland Place, at a price within the reach of the small investor.

An extra well located lot on Morrow street for only $1000, and a small cash payment.

A snug little home on Gorman street, just one block from car line, for only $2500. This is a snap.

DO YOU WANT TO OWN A HOME?

If so come to see us; we have more than 20 choice lots on Provident Heights that we are going to build modern homes on at prices and on terms that will turn your rent receipts into HOME BUILDING COUPONS.

75x165 feet, including a well built house, located close in on N. 15th street. This cannot be beat as an investment. Price $4500.

A modern 6-room bungalow on Columbus street, lot 50x165 feet, for only $4000. Call on us and arrange payments.

A good four-room house, hall and bath, located in a good neighborhood on South Side. Price is $1600, with 1-4 cash, balance to suit.

80x165 feet on South 5th street; if you are looking for a place in this locality it will pay you to see this at $2500.

A beautiful home on Fort avenue, corner lot 100x150 feet, fine shade trees, good barn and garage, and the most interesting feature of this is the price—$7000.

Within 2 blocks of Saner avenue, a fine corner lot and modern 5-room cottage, if you want something that will satisfy the most fastidious, take elevator for 13th floor and ask us to show you this property which we will do with pleasure.

18 acres just off the Interurban and within walking distance of station, surrounded by land selling for $200 an acre and better. If you are quick to make up your mind, we can let you have this at $125 per acre.

27-acre poultry ranch, well located and well improved, at a price that will enable the purchaser to pay for it out of the revenue derived from the sale of the products.

200 acres rich black land, well improved, 185 acres in cultivation, situated 1 1/2 miles from a nice little country town, with good schools and churches. This place has fine well of water and piped over the entire place. Price $65 per acre. Will consider some city property in exchange.

200 acres heavy black land in western part of county, well improved, at $110 per acre.

960 acres river bottom and prairie of which 275 acres are in cultivation; 4 sets of improvements, good windmill and tanks, 200 acres hog pasture. This land is situated in an adjoining county, conveniently located to railroad station, and can be purchased at $15 per acre. Will consider some trade.

If East Texas lands are what you are interested in, see us, for we have a fine list of choice lands and at a price that is really interesting to any one seeking an investment.

One of the largest Grocery Stores in Waco, building and fixtures, $20,000, stock, at invoice price.

Good revenue bearing property on North Side, excellent location for apartment house. Price reasonable and terms to suit.

1-3 interest in Grocery business on Austin avenue, new, clean stock and doing nice business. For further information see us.

100 feet tractage on Mary street, between 13th and 16th streets. Price $50 per front foot.

WE FEEL THAT WE HAVE JUST WHAT YOU ARE LOOKING FOR, SO IF NONE OF THE ABOVE APPEAL TO YOU CALL US UP.

NORTH WACO—NORTH WACO

A few good "buys" north of Austin street, offered by KLEIN & BURLISON, 111 S. Fifth, N. P. 364, O. P. 357.

1—Large six-room house and nearly half block of ground, beautiful trees, etc.; near the new school, if sold right away will take $4000; some trade and a reasonable payment down.

2—Large two-story house and two lots, near North Fifth car line; special price $2500; the lots are almost worth the money.

3—Four lots and a 5-room house, with well, etc.; good location in Farwell Heights, only $2250.

4—Five acres of land and good house, barn, etc.; good location, not far from new school in Farwell Heights; party will take $5000; it is a good proposition to cut up into lots.

5—Eight-room two-story house on Lytle street; non-resident writes us to sell at once; will take $3000, and to get best offer and submit on easy terms.

6—Five-room house, Morrow street, well located, will sell on easy terms for $2250. The house faces south and is well worth the money.

7—Five-room residence, all conveniences, with good store, market, etc.; good location on car line, with nice stock of goods; will sell and give some one a good trade. Get busy if interested.

8—Nice little four-room house, with south front lot, right near (only four feet off) the North Fifth street car line; special price only $1100 for quick sale; non-resident says "Sell at once."

9—Good new, modern home, close in N. Eleventh St., on corner; all conveniences; room to build another house. $3000.

We have a good list of North Waco property and will be pleased to show you. Don't forget that we build houses to suit on the many vacant lots that we control. The plan is simple, and the "red tape" is not burdensome. You simply select your plans, arrange for the cash payment and we will do the rest.

We want your business, and ask that you list with us your property that is for sale, and if the price is right we will turn it.

KLEIN & BURLISON.

Cotton.

New York, July 28.—After a day spent in trying to get a line on the weather situation in Texas, traders in the cotton market concluded that the rains scheduled for Sunday had failed to materialize in the big growing counties of the state and in an effort to replace part of their big short line caused a strong upturn in the late hour. The market closed steady, with September three points lower and the other months unchanged to six points higher. Previous to this final advance the market had been of the weather vane variety, trying to get in step with the constantly changing reports from Texas. It was not until the detailed report was received late in the day that it became evident Texas had received little rain in the sections where it is most needed. Even then it was a question if the plant could not stand a week or so more without suffering irreparable damage, some authorities stating it could go dry until August 10, but the trade had figures on rain and its disappointment found expression in a big buying movement. Of Oklahoma and the central and eastern belts, the reports again were uniformly favorable, the former state having apparently received ample moisture over Sunday.

Liverpool owed its decline of 5 to 10 points during the hour of local opening to the rumors that the Texas drought had been broken, and it caused a partial opening decline here of 10 points on new crops, against 3 points advance in July. Heavy covering of the old crop here, particularly in P. and A. exceptionally close. PRICES: FEEDERS, CONDENSERS, LINT FLUES, FANS, HYDRAULIC CYLINDERS, RAMS AND PUMPS AT A BARGAIN. STEAM BOILERS, ENGINES AND HEATERS, IN SIZES OF FROM 50 TO 150 H. P. AT EXCEPTIONALLY CLOSE PRICES. WE HANDLE THE FAMOUS FINE LINE OF GAS AND GASOLINE ENGINES, FOR ALL REQUIREMENTS. COMPLETE ELECTRIC LIGHTING PLANTS FOR GINS, OR SPECIALTY GET RUBY AND TELL YOUR WANTS. WE CAN AND WILL SAVE YOU MONEY. A LONG LIST OF BARGAINS IS YOURS FOR THE ASKING. CENTRAL TRADING COMPANY, WACO, TEXAS.

New Orleans, July 28.—The opening session of the week in the cotton market was steady on buying stimulated by reports to this market of continued dry weather over a large part of Texas and Oklahoma and the prospect of immediate change in conditions which bulls claimed were working against the crop. Moderate buying was in evidence all day and at their best offerings were scanty.

On the opening the tone was steady with prices 5 points up to 1 point down, compared with the last quotations of Saturday. Cables were better than due. The weather map indicated rains in the eastern belt but they were taken into little or no consideration. Around the middle of the morning the trading months were 8 points over Saturday's last figures. Toward noon the market fell off under reports of much open cotton in Texas and the claim that picking would be general in the earlier counties before the week was over. Earlier in the afternoon the market stood 2 to 3 points over Saturday's close, but a small decline met determined buying and late in the day the market was at its highest level, 2 to 10 points above Saturday's last quotations. The close was steady at a net gain of 7 to 9 points.

Grain.

Chicago, July 28.—Huge primary receipts acted as a burden today on wheat. The market closed nervous 3/4¢ to 1/2¢ down. Corn showed a net advance of 3/4¢ to 1/2¢, with oats carrying from 1/2¢ decline to 1/4¢ advance. The outcome for provisions ranged from 2 1/2¢ lower to an upturn of 10¢.

Arrivals of wheat today at the chief terminal cities reached the extraordinary total of 3,118,000 bushels, against 2,239,000 bushels at the corresponding time a year ago. The visible supply, too, increased to an unexpected extent. Simultaneously new wheat was being offered to arrive here from the northwest and there was word that Minneapolis had today received the first car from the new spring crop. Weak cables gave the wheat market a downward impulse at the outset. Fine weather in the northwest added to the bearish feeling. Railries were attempted but the news had been too one-sided and buyers proved very wary throughout, with December option touching the lowest price of the year.

Livestock.

Fort Worth, July 28.—An individual string of 37 cars of stocker steers, the largest individual shipment ever recorded at this market, furnished the big feature of Monday's market. Thirty-six loads sold at $5.

The run for the day included 4,800 cattle, 1,800 calves, 800 hogs, 430 sheep and 85 horses and mules. A weak demand prevailed throughout the cattle dealings, with many heavier spots.

Beef Steers—More than 100 loads of steers were received early, a good portion of them going in the beef division.

The market was a little uneven, the large part of the offering being mostly undesirable. The good stuff was about steady with 15 to 25 cents off on some shipments. A top of $6.35 was secured but this was on contract stuff.

More than fifty loads was shown in the stocker and feeder division, the market being close to steady with last week's decline and about 25 cents under the price for last week. A top of $6.40 was secured but this was on contract stuff.

Cows and heifers looked about steady. Little sold on the early market. Bulls were about steady with last week's decline.

The calf market was a little uneven, being quoted, however, steady to 25 cents lower. In spots it was 50 cents lower and in places stronger, a top of $7.75 was secured. Quality was hardly steady.

With 500 hogs on hand the market was steady to a nickel lower. A top of $9.12 1/2 was secured on four loads. These sales were considered about steady.

Only 480 sheep were on hand, the market being quoted at steady to strong. A bunch of wethers and ewes brought $1.75.

Chicago, July 28.—Hogs, receipts, 46,000 head; market weak. Mostly 10¢ lower. Bulk of sales, $8.75@9.25; light, $9.00@9.45; mixed, $8.25@8.75; heavy, $8.40@9.20; rough, $8.40@8.50; pigs, $6.00@9.15.

Cattle—Receipts, 19,100 head; market steady to 10 cents lower; beefs, $7.10@9.15; Texas steers, $6.80@7.90; stockers and feeders, $5.40@7.75; cows and heifers, $5.60@8.20; calves, $8.00@10.75.

Sheep—Receipts, 25,000 head; market steady for sheep. Lambs 25 cents lower; native sheep, $4.35@5.50; lambs, native, $5.60@7.75; yearlings, $5.75@6.85.

Kansas City, July 28.—Hogs, receipts, 5,000 head; market strong. Bulk of sales, $8.90@9.00; heavy, $8.90@9.05; packers and butchers, $8.90@9.05; light, $8.90@9.05; pigs, $7.50@8.50.

Cattle—Receipts, 14,000 head, including 2,000 Southern; 10 to 15 cents higher; market steady. Prime fed steers, $8.50@8.85; dressed beef steers, $7.00@8.40; southern steers, $5.70@6.85; cows, $4.00@7.00; heifers, $5.00@5.75; stockers, $5.25@6.25.

Sheep—Receipts, 5,000 head, market, steady. Lambs, $6.25@7.75; yearlings, $4.75@5.50; wethers, $4.25@5.25; ewes, $3.50@4.60.

St. Louis, July 28.—Cattle, receipts, 7,000 head, including 1,000 natives; market, steady. Texans, 10 to 15 higher. Choice to firm steers, $8.00@8.75; good to choice steers, $7.25@8.00; dressed and butcher steers, $5.50@7.25; stockers, $5.25@7.50; Texas steers, $6.25@7.75

BUILDING NEW DIRECTORY STREET PAVERS FIGHT FIRE

Work Is Being Pushed Rapidly and Accuracy Is Promised in the Book.

Data for the new city directory is being gathered rapidly, and Manager George Hills says that compilation and assembly into a definite form will probably be begun Monday morning. While the work is being pushed rapidly, the precaution necessary to the accuracy of the new directory has been taken of solicitors in certain territories and replaced them with experts to retrace the same territory. A strict census of the business houses is being taken to supplement the count from the resident districts in an effort to attain the maximum accuracy. The new directory will differ markedly from the old book in a number of details, especially in abbreviations used. It is thought the new system of abbreviations will be more simple. Manager Hills said yesterday that the information to be filed this year and the understanding of the situation here would make the issuance of future directories a much quicker process.

Building Permits.
The following building permits were issued by the city yesterday:
James Clark, 105 Lela street, extension of porch, estimated cost, $10.
B. R. Goldberg, 105 Webster street, remodeling; estimated cost, $200.
Ed Anderson, Plum street, between Clay and Calhoun, 4-room cottage; estimated cost, $745.
H. V. Nabors, 820 South Eighth, repairs; estimated cost, $10.

CITY IS TO GET ARTESIAN WELL

DEVELOPMENT COMPANY DE-CIDES TO ACCEPT THE COMPROMISE.

ORIGINAL CAPITAL IS INTACT

Will Be Used to Prospect Further in Effort to Secure Hot Water.

The meeting of the stockholders of the Hot Wells Development company yesterday afternoon voted to accept the compromise proposition made by President Johnson of the American Well Diggins company.

This action gives the development company back a hundred cents on every dollar invested, after bringing in and turning over to the city for use in the mains a flow of almost a million gallons a day.

Sam Sanger called the meeting to order in the Chamber of Commerce rooms at 3:30 o'clock, and asked for a list of the stock represented. It was stated 210 shares were necessary to a quorum, and it was found that there were present 297 shares, represented as follows:

Hirshfield Explains Meeting.
D. E. Hirshfield explained the condition of the Hot Well company as follows: The contractor had gone to a depth of approximately 2,400 feet, and had been stopped by two sections of pipe, with the bits attached, twisting of and blocking further progress; the contractor asserted that it was impossible for him to go further in this well; that he was not bound by the contract to start another well from the top of the ground; and offered as a compromise to pay the development company the amount so far received from them, $1,550, turning the well back to them with the artesian flow, which had been ceased off, restored.

The first meeting of stockholders had refused this compromise. It was now brought up for consideration once more.

Will Revert to City.
Tom Padgett asked who would own the well. Hirshfield said that it would revert to the city in thirty days if a flow of hot water at 125 degrees Fahrenheit were not brought in before that time. Mr. Hirshfield then read an opinion from Cross, Gross & Street, attorneys for the development company, to the effect that the contractor could not proceed with the drilling, and that the company was entitled to recover damages sufficient to dig a new well from the top of the ground or to finish out the old well to the required depth of 3,400 feet. He also read the contractor's proposition as stated above, and the letter of refusal sent by the first meeting of stockholders.

Sam Sanger said if the company went into court it wouldn't get out in five years.

Moore for Compromise.
Bart Moore said Johnson had spent about $15,000 trying to go down with the well, that after his own personal investigation, he considered it impossible; that if the stockholders accepted the proposition they would give the city an added water supply of almost a million gallons a day, and have the same capital with which they started, as the city would make up the amount of $400 which they would be out for incidentals. If the compromise is refused it would mean a long, expensive and doubtful litigation.

E. W. Marshall said the company had started in to get a hot well, and that Mr. Sanger seemed to think they were entitled to recover enough damages to sink one, even if they had to start from the top of the ground.

Dr. W. B. Morrison.
Dr. W. B. Morrison said that for eighteen years Waco had been trying off and on to get a hot well; that when the city started to build a new well, Waco would be dependent on things of this kind for her prosperity. A hot well with a first-class hotel and sanatorium would make Waco a winter resort with tourist rates all the year round. He thought the well digging people had asked enough money already; that the best course was to accept their compromise, add to the money, and figure starting a new well.

Howell Taylor said that the meeting was taking this proposition from the standpoint of a square deal rather than a business deal. If he made Johnson a counter proposition they ought to get $5,000 out of him.

Dr. Morrison said that the point was good, and he suggested a committee of five to confer with Johnson.

E. W. Marshall said his personal opinion was that damages could not be recovered in excess of the amount which the compromise offered.

Bart Moore took the same position. He said a litigation would mean expensive attorney's fees, and the development company wouldn't get any more money in the long run.

Compromise Accepted.
Mr. Hirshfield said that the contractor's compromise was liberal in view of the fact that he had discovered a water bearing strata of 300 feet where the best before was only forty feet, which would in the coming years mean millions of dollars to the community; that already Abeel, Roberts, Watt, Riggins and others were preparing to tap this supply. He said the development company had done enough, that it ought to accept the compromise and give each stockholder his money back, which would be a record breaking performance for an affair of this kind in Waco.

Mr. Moore suggested to keep the money in trust till it could be utilized for its original purpose.

J. R. Milam said the stockholders would rather have a hot well than $10,000 in money back.

W. H. Jones said that whatever was done must be done at once. He said he had talked to the contractor's employees, and they were preparing to move the well machinery at once. If they should do this, it would cost the city a thousand dollars to replace the derrick and perforate the well casing which must be done to restore the artesian flow.

Compromise Carries.
Mr. Hirshfield moved to accept the compromise, let the contractor re-start the artesian flow, and turn the well back to the city. The vote was taken by shares, and the motion carried, 239 to 58.

Peyton Randle said there was now no hope for a hot well, and moved that the stockholders be given their money back. The motion was unanimously defeated.

J. P. Bahl moved that the money be turned over to the directors to be used in the promotion of a new hot well. The motion was unanimously carried.

On motion of Mr. Morrison, the directors were instructed to appoint a committee of five to confer with Mr. Watt or any other parties interested.

NEED FOR A SEWER

STORM WATER FROM SECOND AND FRANKLIN TO BE CARED FOR.

Through Mary Street Main—Will Relieve Sanitary Condition in That Section.

To relieve the insanitary condition which exists at Second and Franklin streets, the city will have constructed a sewer main which will run from Second and Franklin streets to Second and Mary streets. Laterals from the main will connect with the Mary street storm sewer, being the first connection to be made with that new sewer.

City Engineer George Byars has about completed details outlining the proposed main, and Street Commissioner Foster will bring the matter before the city commission this morning. Need of a sewer to care for the condition at Second and Franklin streets has been urged upon the commission recently by property owners in that vicinity.

Frank James, representing Taylor-Hanna-James Co., appeared before the commission several days ago with a request that the insanitary condition at that point be relieved. Commissioner Foster took the matter up and will recommend to the commission that the main be established.

The sewer will be of a twenty-four inch main of vitrified pipe with catch basins to be installed at the four corners of Second and Mary streets.

While the laterals from this sewer will be the first to connect with the new Mary street storm sewer, under construction, there will be a number of others to run from Franklin street. At present there are several such, but $1,550, turning the well back to them with the artesian flow, which had been ceased off, restored.

To Pave Franklin.
It is also very probable that pavement will be extended on Franklin street to Second street. At present it extends to Third street. Commissioner Foster is working in an effort to gain signatures to a paving petition.

He expects to get the petition through to provide for one block, carrying the paving to Second, and may be successful in getting signatures sufficient to carry the pavement to First street.

The commission hopes that Franklin will be paved at this point, as there is continual complaint at the condition of that street below Third street. This condition will be relieved greatly by the sewer main, but paving would entirely do away with any cause for complaint.

Cameron Park Sewer.
The commission will be successful in obtaining a right of way through private property for the construction of the Cameron park sewer, without being compelled to resort to the courts for condemnation proceedings. Following the declared intention of the commission at the last meeting to institute condemnation proceedings to secure a passage way for the proposed sewer, the property owner who had demanded $50 as payment for the main crossing her property agreed to sign an easement without further delay. This leaves only one signature to obtain, and this will be affixed as soon as the owner can be communicated with. This assures a clear passage for the sewer. The contract for the work has already been let and the line is to be completed by November.

Grading on Columbus.
Grading on Columbus has been started by the bitulithic people preparatory to paving. Work began yesterday morning, and it is expected by today fifteen wagons and a large force of men will be on the job. Following the grading the paving will be carried right along to completion.

WINDROW AT MOODY TODAY

County Superintendent Will Talk of Road Improvement in That Section.

Continuing his plan of visiting the various towns of the county to interest the residents in good roads, R. J. Windrow, county road superintendent, will visit Moody today, and possibly may also go to McGregor. Mr. Windrow made a trip to the site of the proposed bridge across the South Bosque on the Drippings Springs road yesterday for the purpose of making preliminary surveys.

He will continue during the week to visit various towns over the county visiting those each day that are nearest to his work.

Real Estate Transfers.
The following real estate transfers in McLennan County were filed yesterday by the McLennan County Abstract company:

E. W. Crouch to McGregor Milling and Grain company, tract in McGregor, $5,000.

C. W. Edwards et al. to McGregor Milling and Grain company, part of block 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, block 16, J. J. Dean addition, $425.

IN THE LOCAL COURTS

SID POST VS. J. W. RIGGINS SUIT
TO BE TRIED IN NINE-TEENTH.

Judge McCullough on the Bench.
County Court Begins the Criminal Docket.

The suit of Sid Post vs. J. W. Riggins, in which Post asks damages in the sum of $20,000 for alleged breach of contract, will go to trial in the Nineteenth district court this morning. The case has been postponed from one term to another for various reasons, and has come to be known as one of the important civil cases of the district. The allegation of the plaintiff is that the defendant refused to carry out the contract entered into between them for the trade of real estate. According to the original petition Post alleges that Riggins agreed to trade him fifty acres of land in East Waco and thirty lots in Belmead addition to Dallas, in consideration of two leagues of land which Post owned in Cochran county. The defendant contends that Post could not show a clear title to the Cochran county land, and he therefore refused to make the trade. Post claims he had title to the land, and asks $20,000 as damages because of the alleged refusal of Riggins to make the trade.

The attention of the court was occupied yesterday by hearing motions in the case, and the regular trial will begin this morning.

McCullough on the Bench.
Judge Tom L. McCullough occupied the bench in the Nineteenth district court yesterday for the first time in more than two weeks. He has been absent on leave. J. E. Yantis served as special judge during the absence of Judge McCullough.

County Court Quiet.
County court began a two weeks session yesterday morning, during which criminal cases will be heard. The first day passed rather quiet, with only three cases called for trial being postponed. Only three cases were disposed of. The criminal docket will be resumed this morning.

Charged With Theft.
S. D. McLaughlin, charged with the theft of two chickens, was arrested by the sheriff's department yesterday and a complaint lodged against him. L. C. Hewitt signed the complaint. The chickens are valued at 25 cents each in the complaint.

Ray Getting Back to Normal.
G. W. Ray, sentenced to life imprisonment in the Huntsville penitentiary during the April term of district court for the murder of his wife, Della Ray, and R. E. Farmer, sentenced to two years for swindling, were taken to the state prison yesterday. Deputy Sheriff J. M. Morgan took the two men to McGregor, where he met transfer officers of the penitentiary to whom he delivered them. He accompanied the officers as far as Temple, returning in the afternoon.

Deputy Morgan said Ray obeyed every command addressed to him, and except from pulling at his shirt in a seeming effort to remove it, the man acted normal. Ray's actions in jail have been peculiar and some thought him insane. When he was handcuffed to another negro prisoner at McGregor, Deputy Morgan said Ray began talking to the man. While in jail he refused to converse with any one.

Reporter Hall Etter is at Home—Judge Munroe Better.

Hall Etter, official court reporter for the Fifty-fourth district court, accompanied by Mrs. Etter and the baby, returned from Marlin yesterday, where Mr. Etter has been attending the session of court in that city. Court adjourned Saturday afternoon, but a case which had been unfinished compelled attaches of the court to remain until yesterday afternoon.

Richard L. Munroe, judge of the Fifty-fourth district, who opened the session of court at Marlin, became ill and was compelled to leave the bench and return to his home in Waco. Prentice Olcott, an attorney of Marlin, was elected special judge and continued the session. Judge Munroe was reported much improved yesterday and hopes for his speedy complete recovery are bright. He was strong enough to sit up yesterday.

To Succeed Kauffman.
Austin, July 28.—W. L. Hall, representative from Wharton, is an announced candidate for state senator to succeed the late J. E. Kauffman. Representative Homer Bowie received word today that Dr. A. C. Oliver of the first senatorial district was elected to the state senate.

COOLEST STORE IN THE CITY Singer Brothers

Had to Put Up Deposit To Get Meters Installed

Since publication in The Morning News all names are wanted of those who have been required to put up a deposit before service will be granted by the Texas Power and Light company. City Commissioner Dollins has the following:
"Dear Sir: In compliance with the article appearing in The Morning News of July 27 requesting the names of those who put up deposit for gas and electric service, beg to advise that I put up $10, being a deposit of $5 each for gas and lights, and it was then several days before they put in either. It seems that this is a great injustice, especially when so much partiality is shown as by this company. Hoping you will be able to adjust this matter, not that the $10 is such an item, but it is giving them the free use of a great deal of money to which they are not justly entitled. I am,
"T. D. AGERTON."
Another letter received by the commissioner is as follows:
"Dear Sir: I notice in yesterday's paper you ask for the names of people from whom the Texas Light and Power company has demanded a deposit. When I came here last September and opened my store at 723 Washington I, of course, wanted gas and electricity. Mr. Gooch would not connect up without a deposit. I gave the firm of Jackson & Munnerlyn as a guarantee and after a great deal of delay I got the connection. I was in the one store about a week when I decided to take the other side, as one store was too small for my business. The inside wall was torn out, making one store. I asked the same man for an electric meter. They would not install it, and when I phoned Mr. Gooch that Jackson & Munnerlyn stood good for me, he said that guarantee only covered the first, and that it was $5 or no meter. I told him to go jump in the river. I sent for an electrician and had the two stores connected on the one meter. Now my gas alone is $20 per month. I hope you make them come to time.

HARRY LYLE VISITS AT HOME

Is Now Successful in Business in New Orleans—Sees Growth Here.

"It's good to get back home and see the folks," said Harry Lyle yesterday when he moved about the busy streets and struck palms with those whom he had known here in his boyhood days. He is a son of Judge J. N. Lyle, admiral of the Brazos, and a brother of J. Newton Lyle of the Old Corner Drug Store. He is now successful in business connections in New Orleans, where he has lived for a number of years, and comes back to Waco with his family to visit relatives. Mrs. Lyle and Mrs. J. S. Hill being sisters. "Waco is improving rapidly, and I am pleased," said Mr. Lyle. "When I look about me for familiar scenes I find the landscape has changed. Great business industries stand where land-marks are remembered, and there is a growth and development that is at once noticeable. Where we boys once chased rabbits there are pretty homes and contented people in them, and there is a widening of the city's residence district that indicates the great progress the town is making. I find many old friends and miss some faces I hear of others who have been successful in other towns. I am glad to be again among the people where I was a boy, and recall the pleasures of the days of other years. A fellow who has never gone from home, I find several years has missed the greatest pleasure in life—coming back to get the greeting of friendship and the cordial welcome that is given."

Deaths and Burials.

Mrs. E. E. McDaniel.
News was received in the city yesterday of the death at Hubbard City early in the morning of Mrs. E. E. McDaniel, aged 81 years. With the death of Mrs. McDaniel passes all of the family of the late Col. R. M. Bonner, except Mrs. E. E. Cornish, the only surviving sister of Mrs. McDaniel. Another sister, Mrs. Mattie A. Mills, mother of Mrs. Walter S. Baker, passed away several years ago. Mrs. McDaniel lived in Waco many years ago. Her two sons, Joe and Ed McDaniel, and Edgar McDaniel, spent their boyhood days in Waco. About twenty-five years ago she went to Hubbard City to live, and there was married to the home of her son, Joe B., who remained a bachelor. He was in the business affairs of the town, and was a banker. A month ago he died at Galveston. Edgar McDaniel, a son, survives her.

To Take Katy Evidence.
Austin, July 28.—Thurman Barrett, special commissioner to take testimony in the state's suit against the Katy was in the capitol today on private business. He stated that he would be in Dallas on Wednesday at the first hearing of the case. It is to be assumed from this that compromise negotiations have not progressed far enough to defer taking evidence unless there is a radical change in the next 24 hours.

Boon for Judge Williams.
Austin, July 28.—C. D. Johns, a brother-in-law of Albert Sydney Furlson, favors the election of F. A. Williams, former associate justice of the supreme court, to the Texas governorship. He stated that he had not spoken to Judge Williams of the matter, however, and did not know whether he would accept.

DRAKE IS COLLECTING BONUS

Money for Riggins Hotel Must Be Ready When Foundation Is In.

Collections of the notes given by the citizens for the Riggins hotel bonus is in progress, E. F. Drake, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, having the matter in charge. It is tedious work. Secretary Drake gets the money when he sees the subscriber, but it is taking a lot of leg work to cover the territory in which all the subscribers are located. He is receiving many checks by mail, and suggests that those who have given him notes, make him a check for the amount at once which will greatly facilitate the collection. The amount must be ready for the contractors as soon as the foundation is completed.
